THE AMANA® RADARANGE.® FASTER THAN EVER. BETTER THAN EVER.

Change is essential to growth. But knowing when to change is even more important. The only time we change an Amana® product is when it's a change for the better.

Take microwave ovens. Most of them still scatter the microwaves around every which way. That's the way ours used to work a while back. Till we found a better way.

It's called the Rotawave® Cooking System. And like the name says, it actually rotates the microwaves. So instead of bouncing around, the microwaves are directed into the food in a consistent pattern.

As a result, an Amana Radarange® cooks food faster than ever before. For example, even cakes bake up moist and fluffy in about half the time.

What's more, you'll find most foods require no turning. The more you cook, the more you'll like that feature. The Amana Radarange. We made it faster. We made it better. The Amana Way.

Iowa's football program has long been known for allowing walk-ons a chance to make the team. Andre Jackson, Kent and Kevin Ellis and Dave Becker are a few who were very successful walk-ons at Iowa. Brad Webb, a 1981 captain, is another former walk-on who's very glad Iowa encourages walk-ons.

"When I was a senior in high school, all the big schools thought I was too small to play major college football. Also, the small ones thought that all the big schools were recruiting me." Consequently, the two-time Illinois all-stater was left without many offers.

"Western Michigan and Northern Illinois made offers, but my own pride made me want to earn a scholarship at a major institution," explains Webb.

The question was, where should he inquire about the possibility of walking on. "A friend of our family was coming to Iowa City to check out the dentistry school, so I decided to tag along with film in hand. The coaches checked out my film clip and encouraged me to walk-on," Webb recalls.

Webb showed up for his first fall in Iowa City with a list of goals taller than Iowa's well-known corn fields. "First, I just wanted to letter, make the traveling squad and play on the specialty teams," says Webb. He followed that act by earning a scholarship, starting at defensive end, and finally being named captain.

"Being elected a co-captain really culminates a long, hard struggle. When I was a freshman, Dave Becker was a captain and he was a former walk-on. That gave me needed confidence."

This season Webb is in a battle with Bryan Skradis, a 1980 captain who red-shirted because of an injury, for the starting right defensive end spot. "There's a rivalry between us, but we are still good friends. I sat behind him for two years, so I feel it is finally my turn, and I intend to keep my job."

For three years, coach Hayden Fry has been preaching about the need to have depth. Defensive end is one spot that is a sight for sore eyes. "It is nice to know that if I need a rest, my replacement is a capable player," relates Webb.

As far as that long list of goals goes, Webb insists that he is not quite finished. "I would like to leave my name as one of the captains that finally produced a winning team at this school," claims this accountant-to-be, who has already been named all-academic Big Ten.

"I'd like to get named to the academic unit once more, and then go on to law school here also." With all the things he wants to accomplish, it's a wonder he doesn't want to be president and coach pro football in his spare time. Wait, don't put it past him, he has checked off everything on his list so far.

TOP OFFENSIVE PLAYERS

IN 1981

by Marvin West, Knoxville
NEWS-SENTINEL

Hold the Heisman another play or two. Look at a few more trips off tackle. Inspect the power sweep. Throw a sideline cut and maybe a crossing pattern.

Since the race is just beginning, it might be a little early to award the trophy. You-know-who will probably win it . . . but, even if there is an upset you won't be surprised. The honoree's name is in this story about the best offensive college players in America.

Herschel Walker is one of the best. He was worth a spring bid of $1.5 million by Montreal. He might be worth more than that to Georgia and college football.

As the finest freshman in the history of NCAA statistics, Walker gained 1,616 yards and 15 touchdowns for the national champion Bulldogs. After the first week, he was a marked man. Linebackers knew he was coming but Walker averaged 146.9 per Saturday 5.9 per rush. He ran the hard yards and broke the big ones, caught passes, sold tickets and kept his police before a media blitz.

Week after week he won colorful clashes yet claimed he was but one on a team. At 18, he had rippling muscles and moves that might have been magic. At 19, it will be difficult for Herschel to do more.

Marcus Allen is a great offensive talent. He's tailback at Southern Cal . . . 1,563 yards and 14 touchdowns in 10 games behind the tough Trojan line.

"One of the great players in the country and still getting better," says John Robinson, USC's coach.

Jim McMahon, Brigham Young quarterback, is one of a kind . . . the kind the Cougars come up with almost every other year. By NCAA count, Jim holds 32 national records of varying importance. He was the first Division I passer to produce more than 4,000 yards in a season. He led the country in total offense as a junior. He won the Holiday Bowl with a touchdown pass after the clock ran out.

BYU led America in 1980 total offense, passing offense and scoring average. This quarterback is one big gun.

Art Schlichter, Ohio State quarterback, is high on the list of offensive all-stars. He's high in numbers, too . . . already the school record-holder in total damage inflicted, twice in the top five after Heisman voting.

Jim McMahon, BYU's record setting quarterback, led the nation in total offense last season.

Rayney Meszaros of the University of Pacific is one of the nation's top receivers.

Anthony Carter burns Michigan opponent as a receiver and return man.

Georgia's Herschel Walker had more yards than any freshman in NCAA history.

sensational—85 percent accuracy, 2,889 yards, second best in the proud history of the Pac-10.

One outing was really special, against Oregon State. John hit four scoring passes in the first quarter, two more after a rest. For the season, he set six league records and threw 27 touchdown strikes.

There are other loud bombers, Roman candles, shooting stars. Fancy fireworks are scheduled each weekend this fall. No region has a monopoly. Sparklers are all sizes and they show up day or night. Some are runners. Some are throwers. Some catch and run. Some are man-handlers who find fame foreign. They are on this list.

Michigan's mosquito, Anthony Carter, is a big-play genius as wide receiver and kickoff returner. Syracuse features instant excitement in Joe Morris, a water bug at tailback. Mississippi State has a young bull of a quarterback, sophomore John Bond. He is 6-4, 208, strong enough to block tackles, swift enough to run the dash.

There'll be an awesome review of running backs. Each area of America has one or more. Morris is the main man in the East at 5-7 and 182. He is the career rushing leader with eligibility remaining ... 3,105 in 27 games.

The Ivy League salutes Rich Diano, a molecular biophysics major at Yale. He rushed for 1,074 and caught passes for 212 more.

Curt Warner is the man to see at Penn State. He hit Ohio State for 155 in the Fiesta Bowl. Lorenzo Bouier of Maine set the New England rushing record with 1,622 last fall. Northeastern couldn't tackle him. That Saturday Bouier got 3,021. Navy offers Eddie Meyers, a junior, who owns a host of Naval Academy records.

There are some runaway trains in the Midwest. Butch Woolfolk of Michigan is 6-3 and 215. He got 182 in the Rose Bowl, 1,042 for his junior year. Phil Carter is strong for Notre Dame.

The best man in the Big Eight may be Roger Craig of Nebraska. This 1-back seized every opportunity, and averaged 6.9 per rush. It is unbelievable that Roger racked up 782 yards and 15 touchdowns as a non-starter.

Iowa State claims the defending champ in the conference. Dwayne Crutchfield, down in weight to 225, led the Big Eight with a school-record 1,312 yards and 11 touchdowns. His toughness showed. He lasted all 11 games, ripped Oklahoma for 179, mauled Missouri for 164.

"He's a bull coming out of the chute," says Donnie Duncan, his coach.

Oklahoma has a fast entry in Stanley Wilson. He won spurs against Texas, gaining 172 in 24 tries.

Kerwin Bell had a good beginning at Kansas. He is the lone freshman ever to be consensus all-conference. Six times he was over 100 yards, and he got 216 against Kansas State.

The South has more than Walker ... but no other so good. Barry Redden is Richmond's runner. Floyd Allen does it for VMI. Cyrus Lawrence is VPI's pace-setter. Kelvin Bryant alternated with Amos Lawrence, since departed, and gained 1,039 for North Carolina. That's good for second team.

Southern Mississippi features Sammy Winder, national scoring leader with 20 touchdowns, just four yards short of a thousand rushing. Maryland's man is Charlie Wysocki, a compact runner who earned 1,359 yards and 11 touchdowns last season.

Walter Abercrombie of Baylor returns to hammer the Southwest Conference. As a junior, he led that league with 1,187. Eric Dickerson is best in a stable of wild horses at SMU. Johnny Hector sets a strong pace at Texas A&M. He averaged 5.4 as a sophomore, gained 928. Arkansas looks for junior Gary Anderson to contribute.

Allen is the West Coast star but Stanford's Darrin Nelson is a worthy rival. Twice this tidbit (5-9, 179) has rushed for 1,000 and caught 50 passes or more. In sub-par 1980, Darrin settled for 47 receptions and 889 on the ground. It must be discouraging to get old.

Rodney Holman pulls in passes for Tulane.

San Jose State thinks Gerald Willhite is honors material. He rushed for 1,210, caught 44 passes for 492 and scored 14 touchdowns. He hit Stanford for three TDs and 138 yards.

Famous quarterbacks are plentiful. Some are scramblers. Some throw darts. A few do both. John Fourcade of Mississippi broke Archie Manning's school record with 2,299 in total offense last season. Fourcade pegged four touchdown passes against Alabama, completed 16 of 21 against Tulane. Twice he has led the rugged Southeastern Conference in total offense. His career total is 5,001.

Mike Machurek set three school records at Idaho State. Northeast Louisiana keeps more detailed records. John Holman broke or tied 18!

Steve Stamp of Texas Christian was a sub until Game 5. He still found time to throw for 1,830 and 14 touchdowns. Baylor couldn't handle him. Stamp stuck 408 on the Bears.

Oliver Luck is good news at West Virginia. He'll try to improve on 19 touchdown passes. Pittsburgh, in two years, has enjoyed 3,289 yards and 25 touchdowns from QB Dan Marino.

Coupled with the success of quarterbacks are two kinds of targets, the acrobats and the tall oak trees. Carter is a stunt man for Michigan ... 14 touchdowns in his sophomore season, and a school career kickoff return record in just two campaigns.

"Anthony is the most gifted athlete I've been around," says Bo Schembechler, Michigan's coach. "He's the first sophomore ever selected MVP by our team."

Anthony Hancock of Tennessee is a burner, a hurdler and sprinter in track. Gary Williams catches for Schlachter at Ohio State. Cormac Carney does the miracle bit at UCLA.

Stanley Washington thinks passes are never out of reach at TCU. Brian Kelley and Mike Redding share honors at Holy Cross. Together, they shagged 88 last fall.

Purdue has a tall-pine type in Steve Bryant, 6-3 and 185, slow to take up football, now very fast. He caught 50 for 892 yards as a junior, eight for 180 against Iowa.

Perry Tuttle is in receiving range of Jerry Butler's school records at Clemson. He caught 53 last fall for 915, needs 41 and 572 more to become very famous.

Wake Forest looks often for Kenny Duckett (50-656-12 TDs, an Atlantic Coast Conference record). Notre Dame tries for Tony Hunter. North Texas State knows Pete Harvey can go. He's 5-10 and 170 but he caught 47 last fall.

Nobody beat Rainey Meszaros, University of Pacific—11 on one Saturday, 68 on the year!

Tight ends aren't so numerous but they are full-grown men. Rice points to Robert Hubble, 6-8, 252, with hands to hold 38 passes, movie-star looks and powerful blocking moves. Hubble wants to be in Congress. It'll take a large doorman to keep him out.

Tulane's big target is Rodney Holman, 6-3, 230. This great Greenie caught 42 as a junior and ran over a fair share of defensive backs.

California has one in David Lewis. Brown believes in Steve Jordan. Rod Childs of Idaho State led the Big Sky in receiving (41 for 640). No other tight end has set such a standard.

Anywhere you see a strong offense, look around for the reasons. They are called linemen. Michigan has three Schembechler considers special ... tackles Bubba Paris and Ed Muransky, guard Kurt Becker.

Houston has a hero in Maceo Fifer, 6-5, 280. Don't laugh, but his nickname is Bunny. Utah State's Brian Christensen, 6-5, 275, carries a meaner handle. He is Andre the Giant. Utah finds a wide path behind Jack Campbell, 6-5, 275. Virginia expects leadership from tackle Dave Sullivan. At 6-8 and 270, he's easy to see.

Vanderbilt has a winner in Ken Hammond, 6-4, 278. Tops at Texas is Terry Tausch, a finance major.

The best lineman in America might be Roy Foster of Southern Cal. "As remarkable as this sounds, Roy is better physically than was Brad Budde," says Coach Robinson.

Joe Paterno speaks up for Sean Farrell at Penn State, says he's as good a guard as there is in college. Ohio State believes the same about Joe Lukens. Nebraska lines up behind center Dave Rimington, 270 and quick.

Smart runners shadow the best linemen ... Brad Edelman at Missouri, Lee North at Tennessee, Terry Crouch at Oklahoma, Louis Roseburrow at Grambling, Tom Jelesky at Purdue.

Linemen come up short in credit but they are co-stars where proud points are scored.

Big Ten Season Preview by Al Grady, Iowa PRESS-CITIZEN

For more than half a century of Big Ten football it was often said ... and with true meaning ... that on any given Saturday any team could beat any other.

Alas, for almost 15 years now, Ohio State and Michigan, or Michigan and Ohio State if you prefer, have almost totally dominated the Big Ten in football. Some of the coaches and athletic directors, and perhaps the commissioner, aren't too fond of the term but the league over the last decade has frequently been referred to in football as "The Big Two and Little Eight."

Rightfully so. Only once since 1967, when Indiana, Minnesota and Purdue shared the Big Ten title with 6-1 records and the Hoosiers went to the Rose Bowl, has a team other than Ohio State or Michigan won or tied for the Big Ten title. That was in 1978, when Michigan State tied Michigan for the championship. But since Michigan State was on probation at the time, the Spartans weren't eligible to compete in a bowl game. So, for 13 successive years it's been either the Buckeyes or the Wolverines at Pasadena to test the Best in the West.

Is this the season, at long last, when things are going to change? Are Michigan and Ohio State going to tumble from their lofty positions? Here's the way things look around the Big Ten this fall:

ILLINOIS

It's the second season at Champaign for Coach Mike White after an exciting inaugural campaign in which the Illini logged only a 3-7-1 record, but seven of their 11 games went down to the final play before the outcome was decided. The Illini jumped off to a 3-0 record in the Big Ten, weren't caught until the seventh week of the season and White was runnerup to Bo Schembechler as Big Ten Coach of the Year.

Although QB Dave Wilson is no longer with the Illini, the quarterback job should still be in good hands in the person of Tony Eason, a 6-4, 205-pounder who transferred a year ago from American River Junior College in California.

Although he has a tremendous number of lettermen returning—53—White relied heavily on the junior college ranks in recruiting this year, and several of these newcomers seem certain to break into the starting ranks. One of them may be Oliver Williams, a wide receiver from Englewood, Calif. Another may be Darryl Smith, a running back from Los Angeles who looked terrific in spring drills.

The offensive line looks pretty solid: two of last year's top receivers, John Lopez and Mike Martin, return; Kelvin Atkins and Jack Squirek could be two of the best linebackers in the league; Dan Gregus is a better-than-average defensive end; and Calvin Thomas is a capable heavy-duty fullback.

Kelvin Atkins looks tough at linebacker for the Illini.

Holding down the tight end spot at Indiana is Bob Stephenson.

Look for the Illini to make some more improvements this fall.

INDIANA

Indiana went 6-5 overall last year, but only 3-5 in the Big Ten, good for a threeway share of sixth place.

Coach Lee Corso begins his ninth season at Bloomington faced with a big rebuilding job, largely concentrated on the offensive side of the ball. It's almost the opposite of a year ago, when Corso returned a veteran offensive unit, but started an inexperienced defensive crew. This year, he's got to hope the defense will assert itself early to buy time for the offense to find itself and mature.

"Look at the depth chart," says Corso, "and there's only one senior on it on offense ... tight end Bob Stephenson. That's it."

The No. 1 loss is no doubt that of quarterback Tim Clifford, who ran the Big Red offense so successfully the last two seasons. The battle to replace him is among Chad Huck, Mark Sutor, Cam Cameron and JC transfer Babe Laufenberg. Also gone are top receivers Steve Corso, Nate Lundy and Dave Harangody. Stephenson will catch his share, and then some, at the tight end spot, with Greg Brooks and Dave Weir getting an early nod as wide-outs.

Indiana also lost its top three runners, but John Mineo and Johnny Salters did well in spring practice.

At the start at least, Indiana's defense seems more solid than its offense. The loss of star cornerback Tim Wilbur was a blow, but there are a lot of good defensive players returning, headed by end Craig Kumerow, linebacker Craig Walls, middle guard Denver Smith and safetyman Dart Ramsey.

IOWA

When the final Big Ten standings were added up last fall, it was perhaps somewhat of a surprise to find Iowa up there alone in fourth place, right behind the three front-runners who went to bowl games. Maybe that was because the Hawkeyes had a poorer overall record (4-7) than in Hayden Fry's first season (5-6), and because they took some bad whippings from Purdue (58-13) and Ohio State (41-7).

Whatever, the Hawkeyes enter Big Ten play in 1981 with a built-in advantage: They don't play Ohio State.

Fry's team will again throw the ball a lot, and he feels he has a pair of very capable quarterbacks in Pete Gales, who took over last year at mid-season for the injured Phil Suess, and Gordy Bohannon, a California JC transfer who was redshirted in 1980. At the end of spring practice, a pair of sophomores from Chicago, J. C. Love-Jordan and Eddie Phillips, were neck-and-neck for the running back job.

The offensive line probably holds the

STRATEGY OF SUBSTITUTION

by George Rorrer,
Louisville TIMES

Somewhere in the American psyche is the image of the substitute football player.

He is the rider of the pine, the spear-carrier in a platoon of machine gunners.

At banquets, when the coach gets around to saying something nice about his subs, people usually smile politely and nod.

Until recently, that is.

Coaches are finding new ways of using more of the talent at their disposal. More players are actually playing college football, if only for a few plays a game.

This strategy is paying dividends. It gives the coach a fresh player with a specific skill to fit a specific need, and it gives him a squad full of young zealots who are certain their contributions are truly important to the team.

There are still those who prefer their football 1940s-style. One platoon. Men were men. Who cared if everybody was too tired to dance at the prom?

Some of today's young players are not playing football at all, they contend, but instead are playing Defensive End or Offensive Guard.

There is a bit of truth in that, admitted a head coach of a southern independent. But, he said, "I'd rather have things the way they are now, and I think football fans would, too.

"I played in those days when we went both ways. I know there was no way we could come close to playing with the skills these kids today show. You had to rest sometime, and you'd take your choice of when—on offense or on defense.

"In practice, we'd have to divide our time and work on both offense and defense, and on the kicking game. We just didn't have time to learn all there is to know about any one thing.

"Now we can take the kids and concentrate on improving their best skills. It gets more players involved. It's just a better game."

In the 1980s, substitutions are made for many reasons, not just because somebody is injured or needs some air.

"We substitute when we change offensive and defensive formations," said the coach of a midwestern power.

"We run from the I formation, from the Wishbone, from the split T, from just about everything.

"Say we're using a formation with just one running back behind the quarterback. That gets four receivers into the game—two tight ends and two wide-outs. You think we can't spread a defense out with that formation?

"You can pass from it, or you can run from it, but you can get better deception on a running play if you have at least one more running back in there. So maybe we'd put in a running back for a wide receiver, and maybe we'd have a better-blocking tight end or tackle we'd want to use."

Wouldn't that telegraph the play call? If you send in a 240-pound fullback on third-and-one, won't the defense know he's going to run right at 'em?

"Well," he answered, "it's the same thing as putting in a fifth or sixth defensive back in a passing situation. If you're on defense, you pretty much know what's coming, and if you're on offense, you know the defense has an idea of what you're going to do."

"Okay, say he knows you're going to run. But he still doesn't know WHERE you're going to run—right, or left, or up the middle."

However often substitutions are made, and for whatever reason, most coaches play percentage football.

When the situation calls for a pass, most coaches are going to pass. When it calls for a run, most coaches are going to run.

What coaches can do with substitutions is to get the best people they have for a specific situation into the game for that situation.

Substituting becomes especially difficult when a team is facing an unpredictable opponent, one that runs multiple offensive formations.

As one coach pointed out, "When you have to wait until they come out of the huddle to find out what formation they're going to be in, you're not going to have time to substitute to counteract it."

"What you do then is call your defense with regard to down and distance and substitute accordingly."

Sometimes substitutions are made specifically to act as decoys, to fool an opponent.

This kind of tactic is particularly effective when players on a team have established reputations. If everyone on the field knows that Joe Smith, for example, is good at catching the possession pass eight yards down the field, he might be put in to run that route, then break it downfield.

That's a two-edged sword.

"I thought that, too," one master of strategy admitted. "The first time I faced a really well-recognized coach, I tried to fool him that way."

"I knew he'd be well-prepared, and I knew he'd try to counteract whatever I did.

"Well, I sent in this fast little wide receiver and used him to try to clear out for my tight end, and danged if their safety man didn't recover and intercept the pass."

"I used my best running back as a decoy most of the day. I thought it would get my other backs loose, because I knew they'd be keying on him anyway."

"Well, they stopped my other backs and by the time I went to my best guy, we were behind 35-10-0."

In recent years, some major teams have succeeded with a two-quarterback system. One will clearly be a superior passer to the other, and the other a superior runner.

An odd thing happened, though. Some of those teams' most significant successes under these circumstances have occurred when the passer ran, or the runner passed.

But most coaches don't like to alternate quarterbacks. There's the very simple, practical matter of voice inflection and cadence. When a new quarterback comes in, the timing of the entire team can change.

Another point is leadership. Not all quarterbacks are good leaders. Naturally, coaches want the best leader in the quarterback position. Many coaches feel that it is not a good practice to divide leadership as there is a danger of dividing the loyalties of the team members.

Most coaches prefer to substitute at quarterback only when the game has already been decided and they want the No. 2 man to get some game experience.

Where is college football headed? Will there someday soon be a first-and-10 unit, a second-and-five team, and a third-and-short yardage team?

No, said a southern coach, who believes the art of substitution has gone about as far as it can go.

"Well," he said, "for one thing, the logistics of it are prohibitive. It would occupy too many assistant coaches just making sure the right people were at the right place at the right time—either in the game, or in a specific area waiting to go in at the right time."

"We have a lot of players, but not enough to do that."

"You want to substitute a lot to get more people involved and keep everyone fresh, but sometimes there's a big drop-off in ability from your starters to your second-stringers. You have to be careful not to overdo it."

"Right now you can get your best 'skilled' people—your quarterbacks and receivers and runners—into the ball game for the situations where they're most likely to be successful."

"I think in college football we use as many people as we possibly can."

Sending in the right player at the right time is the key to substitution strategy.

Tailgate Picnics

Tailgating in traffic is a nuisance, but tailgate picnics are another story. Just ask any football fan. Most look forward to the pre-game meal and camaraderie nearly as much as the game itself.

The R. T. French Company's Test Kitchens in Rochester, N. Y. have two topping suggestions which will perk up both the standard hamburger and hot dog fare and are guaranteed to please the hungriest fan.

Sauteed Bermuda Onions, combined with sour cream and mustard, add a delightful taste to those same old burgers.

Or if you prefer hots, dress them up with a zesty topping of crushed pineapple, green pepper and tomato paste added to an envelope of sloppy joe seasoning.

The toppings are best when served warm, so place them in small containers on the corner of the grill until the burgers and hot dogs are ready to eat.

Both of these recipes were among the favorites of newspaper food editors nationwide last year, so let their educated palates be your guide.

Serve either or both dishes at your next outing with a crisp green salad and fresh fruit for dessert. Whether you're in the stadium's parking lot or your own back yard—your crowd will cheer. ■ key to the team, for the Hawkeyes appear to have good people at the skilled positions, but are lacking depth on the interior line. Last year Iowa moved the ball well, but often found scoring a very tough chore.

Defensively, Iowa should be strong, and despite all those points scored by Purdue and Ohio State a year ago, Iowa finished fifth in the Big Ten in both scoring and total defense and was third against rushing. Eight starters return on defense and the best of them appear to be end Andre Tippett, tackle Mark Bortz, noseguard Pat Dean and linebackers Mel Cole and Todd Simonsen.

MICHIGAN

Bo Schembechler enters his 13th season at Ann Arbor with the seemingly well-deserved title as the team to beat, and that probably does not make him altogether unhappy.

Last year he began with only eight seniors listed among his top 44, lost two of the first three games, to Notre Dame by two and to South Carolina by three, and then won nine in a row, topped off by the Big Ten championship win over Ohio State at Columbus and the Rose Bowl win (at last!) over Washington.

The 1981 squad returns 17 of 24 "starters" from that contingent, seven on offense, eight on defense and both kicking specialists. Add to that the fact that Michigan reportedly had a super recruiting year and you can see why even the usually cautious Bo admits, "We'll probably find ourselves ranked among the top teams in the country entering the new season."

The only real "problem" at Michigan would appear to be at quarterback, where starter John Wangler graduated. His replacement will be Rich Hewlett, B. J. Dickey, David Hall, Steve Smith or Greg Powell. Surrounded by superior material, they won't have to be outstanding . . . just good.

Back are a great trio of tried and tested running backs, Butch Woolfolk, Stan Edwards and Lawrence Ricks. Michigan also has perhaps the most dangerous long-range receiving threat in the nation in lightning-fast Anthony Carter. In front of these people is a great offensive line headed by three returning All-Big Ten veterans, guard Kurt Becker and tackles Bubba Parris and Ed Muransky, both 6-7 and 270.

Over the years, defense has been Bo's strong suit at Michigan and this year is no exception. The Wolverines return eight of 11 starters and 21 lettermen from a unit that did not permit a touchdown in the last 22-plus quarters of the 1980 season, including the Rose Bowl, and gave up only nine total points on three field goals in the final five games of the year.

Among the defensive stars are Jeff Shaw at middle guard, Winfred Caraway at tackle, Robert Thompson and Paul Girgash at linebacking spots, and the entire defensive backfield of Brian Carpenter, Marion Body, Keith Bostic and Tony Jackson, who gave up only three touchdown passes all last fall.

MICHIGAN STATE

Last year was the first at East Lansing for Coach Muddy Waters, and while it had a few happy moments, it wound up only 3-8 overall and 2-6 in the Big Ten, including a jolting 41-0 season-ending loss at home to Iowa.

MSU's Derek Hughes should roll up lots of yardage for the Spartans this season.

"The future looks a little brighter this year," says Waters, "but we're still going to have to pay our dues. We don't have that experience you need in the offensive and defensive lines yet, and we've lost some good seniors who will be difficult to replace. As far as the incoming freshmen are concerned, I expect as many as six or seven to be in contributing roles very soon."

Forty-five lettermen return, including eight starters from the offensive unit and eight from defense. One area of great interest is at running back, where all-time rushing leader Steve Smith graduated. The progress of injured star Derek Hughes, the emergence of junior college transfer Lance Hawkins in the spring, the continuing improvement of veterans Tony Ellis and James Hodo and the addition this fall of prep All-America Aaron Roberts from Detroit make this a seemingly well-fortified spot.

The starting quarterback is apt to be John Leister from Great Falls, Mont., who took the job away from Bert Vaughn last season. Vaughn was injured and underwent knee surgery last spring, and his status for this season is doubtful.

One area that MSU coaches are paying particular attention to is defense, where Michigan State gave up 25 points and 415 yards per game a year ago. Spartan assistant head coach and defensive coordinator Sherman Lewis is confident the team will be much better in that area this fall.

"We will definitely be better," says Lewis. "There are several very experienced people returning who are bound to improve, plus we think there will be

There are more linebackers returning with established credentials than at any other position, with Notre Dame's Bob Crable heading the list as a returning All-America.

Crable, the two-time Irish captain, was voted most valuable player by his teammates last season and his 354 career tackles rank him fourth on the all-time Irish list.

But at least a baker's dozen linebackers have close to the statistics and the "rep" of the Irish captain.

Chip Banks of USC was All-Pac-10 and third team All-America last year, with 10 pass deflections, 107 tackles (15 for losses), two fumble recoveries, and an incredible steal of Notre Dame quarterback Mike Courey's attempted pass which was returned 49 yards to clinch the victory over Notre Dame.

Robert Thompson of Michigan is named the most underrated linebacker, but Coach Bo Schembechler calls him "A definite honors candidate."

A big-play type, Thompson's 84 total tackles included 15 for 60 yards in losses.

As a junior, Alabama's Thomas Boyd won some second and third team All-America honors after leading the Tide with 72 solo and 48 assisted tackles. His big game was against Notre Dame when he had 14 solo tackles and five assists including one tackle for a three-yard loss.

Noted for his "agility, hostility and mobility," Robert Abraham of North Carolina State was a ringleader in holding Duke to minus 13 yards rushing. William and Mary to just three yards and two other opponents to less than 100 yards rushing, with a season's total of 130 tackles.

They are classing Marcus Marek with the great Ohio State linebackers. A two-year starter for the Buckeyes, Marek totaled 140 tackles last year in winning All-Big Ten honors, as well as Academic All-America recognition.

A year ago Calvin Daniels of North Carolina was over-shadowed by consensus All-America star Lawrence Taylor, but still totaled 32 solo tackles and 18 assists, including 10 tackles for losses.

Darrell Nicholson of North Carolina teams with Daniels in a fine unit. He was leading tackler on the 11-1 ACC championship team.

California is high on Rich Dixon, a senior who set a Pac-10 record as a soph with an interception return of 78 yards for a score against Washington State. He earned All-Pac-10 and All-Coast as a junior.

Another outstanding linebacker is Stuart Anderson of Virginia, who has a three-year tackle total of 341, including 39 for losses.

With the Most Valuable Defensive Player trophy from the Liberty Bowl game against Purdue, Missouri's Van Darkow returns as the No. 2 tackler as well as a top student, with a 3.72 grade point in pre-med.

Another big-play man is Vernon Maxwell of Arizona State, who led the team in defensive points. Maxwell had his best game against Arizona when he blocked a Temple's Steve Conjar is known as the "Incredible Hulk."

reput and recovered for a touchdown, recovered a fumble, intercepted a pass, sacked the quarterback twice and had 16 tackles.

Steve Damkroger is another in a long line of players from his family on the Cornhusker roster. His best game was 17 tackles against Oklahoma.

Johnie Cooks of Mississippi State, a 6-5, 240-pound middle linebacker, was a prime force in victories over Miami and Alabama. He is credited with being a main reason for the turn-around from a 3-8 to a 9-3 season in two years.

Washington's Mark Stewart's credentials include 17 tackles against Oregon, 15 against Oklahoma State and 11 against Arizona.

Two other linebackers certain to receive top consideration for honors are Grady Turner of Houston and Sal Sunseri of Pitt, the latter with five interceptions to go with his 81 tackles and the former honored as the AP's National Defensive Player of the Week for his stand against Arkansas.

Other linebackers who have good credentials, but are not as well-known, include Mike Johnson of Nevada-Las Vegas and teammate Reggie Williams, a red-shirt transfer from Oregon State; John Schachter from Northern Arizona; Kirk Harmon of Pacific; Jeff Rohrer of Yale; Steve Conjar of Temple, called the "Incredible Hulk" at 5-10 and 231; Joe Skladany of Lafayette, a brother of the Ohio State punter of a few years ago; and Kevin Sheesley of Colorado State, three-time Western Athletic Conference wrestling champ at 190 pounds.

Brad Reese of Akron, Craig Shaffer of Indiana State, Jim Budness of Boston College, Steve Lehor of Hawaii, Danny Rich of Weber State and Joe Wilkins of Maryland are others to watch.

Baylor's Vann McElroy tied for the nation's lead in interceptions.

Chris Cosgrove of Oregon is coming off an injury which gave him another year of eligibility, while Ricky Hunley of Arizona is ranked the best Wildcat player in the last 10 years, with 14 tackles against UCLA.

Darrell Patterson of Texas Christian; Jeff Davis of Clemson; Vanderbilt's "Secretary of Defense," Andrew Coleman; Texas A & M's Mike Little (who claims to be the smallest player at his position); Mike L. Cofer, a junior switched from end to linebacker in the spring at Tennessee; and the twin tigers at Oklahoma State, Ricky Young and Mike Green, also will challenge for honors.

There should be several wide-open battles for the defensive end honors this year.

Among the headliners are Jimmy Williams of Nebraska, outstanding defensive player in the Sun Bowl and a 4.34 speedster at 6-3, 217 pounds and Larry Kubin of Penn State, granted a fifth year after a practice injury last year, and called by Joe Paterno "as good as any end we have had."

Grambling may have the tallest end in 6-8, 235-pound Robert Smith, a former tight end switched to defense, while Arkansas is high on Billy Ray Smith, the only player who started every game for Coach Lou Holtz as a freshman and who was defensive player of the game in the Hall of Fame Bowl. Smith was a two-year starter at tackle but moved to end to get more action in the spring.

Keith Baldwin of Texas A & M was a key figure in the Aggie victory over Ole Miss as he twice sacked the quarterback in the fourth quarter to save the game 23-20.

Jarvis Coursey was most valuable player on defense for Florida State in a televised game.

Mississippi is backing James Otis, the second leading tackler on the squad, who will be a junior. He had 13 unassisted tackles against Tennessee as a frosh.

Iowa's Andre Tippett led his team in sacks with 20 for minus 153 yards, while Virginia Tech's Robert Brown is highly rated.

Among other defensive ends are Eugene Williams of Tulsa; John Harper of Southern Illinois; Don Fielder of Kentucky; and Mark Bradley of Georgia Tech, who came off a 1980 injury to "totally dominate the line of scrimmage," according to Coach Bill Curry in the spring.

Jimmie Carter of New Mexico was the team's second leading tackler as a freshman last year and BYU's Brad Anae had nine sacks and returned one intercepted pass 45 yards for a touchdown.

Tony Hayes of Florida A & M has 12 sacks among his 88 tackles while Tim Ford of Western Kentucky was named a first team Division I-AA All-America on the basis of his two-year total of 184 tackles.

Rusty Guilbeau of McNeese State weighs 255 and runs a 4.9 in the 40, as well as bench pressing more than 400 pounds. Arthur King of Grambling State is coming off injuries which hampered him a year ago. Steve Raquet of Holy Cross was ECAC co-rookie of the year as a frosh in 1980 and will be a future star. And Glenn Jones of Murry State was second team College Division All-America and two-time All-Ohio Valley star.

The tackles are led by Kenneth Sims of Texas, a consensus All-America from a year ago. At 6-6 and 265, he was second in team tackles with 131, with 100 unassisted, and registered 13 sacks.

UCLA's Irv Eatman is a junior, at 6-7 and 270, but he has 4.8 speed and a 26-inch vertical jump. He was outstanding in UCLA's 17-0 shutout of Ohio State, sacking Art Schlichter four times to earn Player of the Game honors.

In Texas they call Texas Tech's Gabriel Rivera "Señor Sack" and despite his 280 pounds on a 6-3 frame, he runs the 40 in 4.77. He started the past two years as a noseguard and led the club in tackles for a down lineman both years. Rivera is at defensive tackle this season.

Edmund Nelson of Auburn is 6-4 and 252. He played defensive end a year ago and noseguard and tackle in 1979. He is a top scholar whose parents almost made him drop football when his grades slacked off early in his career.

Fletcher Jenkins of Washington earned lineman of the week honors for his 12-tackle performance against USC.

Henry Waechter is rated the best pass rusher on the Nebraska squad, at 6-6 and 275. He has great quickness for his size.

Houston's Bill Yeoman claims tackle Terry Monroe is as good at the point of attack as any player he has had at that position, while Reggie White, a 6-5 soph at Tennessee, was the sensation of the spring practice.

Steve Clark of Utah may be the best lineman in the Western Athletic Conference. He came off knee surgery a year ago to earn all-conference and All-America honorable mention.

Minnesota has a pair of junior tackles who will bear watching in Kevin Kellin, 6-6 and 240, and Steve Bisch, 6-5 and 258.

Shamus McDonough came on fast in the last five games for Iowa State, including a 12-tackle performance against Oklahoma.

Mark Bortz of Iowa had 82 stops, with his best game 14 tackles against Nebraska. Dennis Edwards of USC has 34 tackles for a loss in three years and has been an All-Pac-10 pick.

Andrew Provenge of South Carolina had 11 tackles against Southern California in 1980, playing over Trojan All-America Keith Van Horne.

Despite the fact that teams ran away from his position, Jerome Foster of Ohio State had 83 tackles and was considered the most underrated player on the defense.

Among the other top tackles are David Galloway, outstanding defensive player for Florida in the Tangerine Bowl; the twin tackles at LSU, Bill Elko and Ramsey Dardar; Jimmy Payne of Georgia, All-SEC last year; Clenzie Pierson of Rice, a 6-7 junior and Rutgers' Mike Rustemeyer and Bill Pickel.

Princeton nominates Jono Helmerich, a 6-5 co-captain with good mobility, while Wyoming's best defensive lineman is Rick Farnsworth.

Among the others to watch are Dave Scheller of Ball State; Sedrick Brown of The Citadel; Randy Trautman of I-AA champion Boise State; Mark Seale of Richmond; Dave Davis of Wichita State; Max Gill of Northern Illinois; Mike Perko of Utah State; and Pat Curry of Montana.

At the middle noseguard posts, Warren Lyles of Alabama is tabbed "quicker than a hiccup." The outstanding player in the 1981 Cotton Bowl, he has great speed and sets up tackles for 'Bama linebackers.

Mark Jerue was Washington's most valuable defensive player in the Rose Bowl and was credited with 16 tackles against Oklahoma and with 14 stops in three other games.

Michael Carter, 6-2 and 265, of SMU, was defensive MVP in the Holiday Bowl.

He was the NCAA indoor shot put champion two years running and won the outdoor title as a freshman and sophomore.

Oklahoma's Johnnie Lewis was named AP National Lineman of the Week for his play against Nebraska when he had 14 unassisted tackles.

Navy's Tim Jordan didn't start playing football until his junior year in high school; he had been in the band. Jordan came on strong last year and Coach George Welsh admits, "I didn't see anyone as good as he was last year at nose-guard. He probably is the best we've had at that position in recent years."

Wisconsin's Tim Krumrie made All-Big Ten last year as a soph as the Badgers jumped from 105th nationally in defense against the rush to No. 11, giving up only 117.5 yards a game. Krumrie also is a heavyweight wrestler.

Eddie Weaver of Georgia was voted All-SEC last year and defensive lineman of the game for his performance against Georgia Tech. He's 6-0 and weighs 270 and is also a top man in the shot.

Other candidates for the position include Falaniko (Niko) Noga of Hawaii, a soph; Elvin Keller of West Texas State; Fred Nordgren of Portland State; Willis Carolina of Tulsa and Greg Azar of New Mexico.

Underclassmen seem to dominate the cornerbacks, with Lupe Sanchez of UCLA rated outstanding.

He was second to Kenny Easley in tackles with 71, including seven behind the line, along with three interceptions. He has started 19 straight games for the Bruins and led the team with 13 passes broken up.

Perry Williams of North Carolina State is another junior who is rated as potentially one of the finest to come out of the ACC.

Three other juniors to watch are Steve Brown of Oregon, whose 36-yard return contributed to victory over Washington; Tommy Wilcox of Alabama, who had nine solo tackles and 10 assists and a pass deflected in the loss to Notre Dame; and Ray Horton of Washington, who also was fourth, nationally in punt returns, with a 73-yarder against USC, a key to the victory.

A senior, Dennis Tabron of Duke, is well-respected—he intercepted five passes for 132 yards and was a top kick return man.

Other cornerbacks with good statistics are Dana McEmore of Hawaii, who was all-conference as a return specialist in '79 and All-WAC last season; Larry Hogue, a senior at Utah State; and Jeff Gradingier, rated the best defensive back at Brown in the last 10 years.

Washington State was impressed last year with Paul Sorensen, who had transferred from junior college, and started, while Louisville is touting Leon Williams, a three-year starter with 11 interceptions. South Carolina State is boosting Thomas Tutson, who came back to start the last two seasons after a back injury, and San Diego State is counting on Mike Fox, who led the NCAA in kickoff returns in 1980 with a 32.8 yard average.

Louisiana State is expecting James Britt to reach his potential as a senior after starting every game since Indiana in 1978 (except three missed games as a soph due to injury); Gill Byrd of San Jose State totaled 85 tackles, one fumble recovery, 15 pass deflections and seven interceptions last year in winning PCAA honors; and Oklahoma junior Darrell Songy may be the best player of the crop.

New Mexico State's James Ferebee will be in the record books for blocking 19 kicks (eight field goals, six PATs and five punts). Houston's Donnie Love is a veteran who hasn't had enough recognition.

Baylor's Vann McElroy intercepted eight passes to tie for the nation's lead and stamp himself as an honors safety candidate. He also had 12 tackles against Alabama in the Cotton Bowl.

Tim Seneff of Purdue, 6-2 and 210, may be the biggest safety in major college football, but he's the No. 2 returning tackler, with his best showing against Notre Dame (nine solo tackles, eight assists and a fumble recovery). He was first team Academic All-America, too.

Johnny Jackson of the Air Force had 99 tackles, 15 passes deflected, two interceptions, four fumbles recovered and one fumble caused, with 18 tackles against Notre Dame as his busiest day. He's the best the Falcons have had, maybe ever.

Freddie Marion of University of Miami already holds the school career record for tackles by a defensive back and he needs just three more interceptions for a school interception record.

In his first year (after transferring from J.C.) at Michigan State, Thomas Morris became the first Spartan back in history to lead his team in tackles with 114. He's also a great punt return specialist, 26 for 185 yards.

Stanford's soph sensation, Vaughn Williams, won freshman All-America honors as a starter last year, while Arizona State's Mike Richardson was voted All-Pac-10 as a soph last year with his eight interceptions.

Wyoming has a top tackler in John Salley. Tulane likes Lionel Washington.

Mike Robb of Minnesota was named to All-Big Ten second team as a soph and was on the conference's first Academic team.

Among the other safeties to watch are Mike Haynes of Grambling State; Rick Woods of Boise State; George Schmitt of Delaware; and Toledo's Mike Kennedy.

"Come to think of it,
I'll have a Heineken."

A 40-YEAR-OLD PLAYING COLLEGE FOOTBALL?

Joe Kline(23) and the Roger Williams College football team made national headlines.

by Jack Clary

The stars of college football in 1960 still are recognizable names ... quarterbacks Roman Gabriel of N.C. State and John Hadl of Kansas ... tailback Billy Kilmer of UCLA ... running back Joe Bellino of Navy, who won the Heisman Trophy ... tight end Mike Ditka of Pitt ... and defensive linemen Merlin Olsen of Utah State and Bob Lilly of Texas Christian.

That was 21 years ago and those players all were 20 or 21 years of age. At Paul Smith College, in upstate New York, there was another 20-year-old player in 1960 named Joe Kline, whose name never made any national headlines and who was just as interested in forestry as he was in football.

Twenty years afterward, it's 1980 and Gabriel, Hadl, Kilmer, Bellino et. al., are long gone from the gridiron—but not Joe Kline. He had one more year of football left in his 40-year-old bones, and he gave it willingly for Roger Williams College, a small four-year school in Bristol, R.I., and only a short punt from Narragansett Bay, whose gridiron program began in 1979 on a club level.

Joe Kline in real life is Lt. Col. Joseph Kline, a much-decorated 20-year Marine who flew over 600 missions as a helicopter pilot in Viet Nam, and who last year was allowed to finish an education interrupted in 1961 by military duty, as part of the Marine Corps' College Degree Program. Of course, there was nothing in the program that said a man also had to play intercollegiate football.

It certainly isn't in the thinking of those who might worship at the altar of eternal youth (by today's standards, that seems to be 19 to 29), so it is little wonder that he has been peppered by one question: Why did you do it?

"I felt I wanted to do it," he says. "I felt I could physically handle it and it seemed like the thing to do at the time. Most of all, I did it because I enjoyed it."

So, it seems, did his teammates and his coach, Ed Marapesse, who was two years Kline's junior, and more than a bit amazed when he showed up at fall practice a year ago, saying that he wanted to make the team as a defensive back.

"I didn't know what to think," Marapesse recalls. "Some of the

ABOUT THE AUTHOR: Jack Clary has been a full-time freelance writer specializing in sports since 1972. Prior to that he spent 15 years as a sportswriter-columist for the AP, the New York World Telegram & Sun and the Boston Herald Traveler. Clary has written eight books on football, including a collaboration with Paul Brown on Brown's autobiography.

kids had told me there was a 40-year-old Marine Corps colonel coming out for football, and I guess I was a bit uneasy. When I first saw him, I was surprised—yes and no—that he would try to make the team.

"I guess it was natural to be surprised when someone 40 years old says he wants to play college football. But when I looked at him, I wasn't that surprised because he was in top physical condition. And as the first week of practice went on, I wasn't surprised either, that he had trouble keeping up with the young guys after doing eight of our prescribed 15 40-yard wind sprints. But after one week, he held his own."

Perhaps anyone would have been surprised when a 40-year-old player shows up and says he wants to be a cornerback or safety. In today's football—at every level because all talent is relative—speed and great athletic ability are two of the primary requisites for corners and safeties.

But Kline had played those positions before, first in high school in Merrick, Long Island, then at Paul Smith College, and through a series of Marine Corps post teams, the most recent having been only five years before. It was obvious, Marapesse recalls, that he did have some football schooling.

"His pass defense wasn't that bad," the coach says. "We played club teams and there wasn't the overall sophistication you find in higher competition. He made up for his lack of foot speed by the way he played against a receiver—the time-honored speed of the head vs. the speed of the legs, and he had it pretty well figured out."

His fellow players, all of whom were old enough to have Joe Kline as their father (indeed, his oldest son was a senior player at Portsmouth, R.I. High School), didn't quite know how to cope at first.

"Should we go all out against him?" several asked Marapesse before individual drills.

"Absolutely," the coach replied. "He's a player like everyone else."

Marapesse remembers one of the young players telling Kline before a blocking drill that he'd prefer not to go one-on-one "because I don't want to hurt you."

"Joe got mad," the coach recalls. "Coach," he said, "I'll go if you want me to, but I want to go against him." The two of them really went at it, and the kid kept blowing Joe away but he kept coming back. That one drill set an example for every player on our squad about the value of never giving up. There wasn't a player who didn't have the utmost respect for him after that day."

Kline's determination was an inspiration to the whole team.

The entire saga of Joe Kline's one-year varsity career at Roger Williams was wrapped up in inspiration. The team didn't win any of its eight games, but as the season wore on, instead of becoming discouraged, everyone became more intense, more determined to succeed. It seemed that every second half was played harder than the first half, and Marapesse lays much of the credit on Kline.

"He brought in some Marine Corps slogans and gave each of the players a copy. They were principles he lived by," Marapesse remembers, "and they began to mean something to the players, too."

Some of the world's cynics might smirk at hearing "... Courage is a moral quality—not a gift of nature like an aptitude for playing this game. It is a cold, calculating choice ... a fixed reaction not to quit ... an act of dedication made many times over by the will ..."

His teammates made it their code too, and it is one of the legacies which Kline has left behind for future teams.

"I really loved the experience," Kline says today. "I'm sure they were a bit wary of me, but they never showed it. I didn't try to impose my values on them and we got along fine. I think it will be something all of us will treasure, and even after the season ended, we stayed close. We'd meet in the cafeteria for coffee or play racquetball."

But how did they take to someone twice their age trying to compete against them?

"Most of them let me know, at one time or another, that I was old enough to be their father," Kline says, laughing. "But there were no problems. I think the feeling was, 'Why are you doing this, you old geezer?' and then they went after me on the practice field just as hard as they went after each other. And when I was tired and winded, someone would come along, give me a pat on the fanny and say, 'C'mon you old fool. You can do it.'"

Sometimes during practice, instead of making a blindside tackle or block, the younger players would wrestle him to the ground with their arms, and the blocks would be aimed higher up on the body. "I guess they didn't want to hurt the old man when nothing was at stake," he says, laughing again.

In the games, there was no such deference. In the opener against Stonehill College while covering a kickoff, Joe went flying one way, his helmet another. "It didn't bother me," he says, "because it was just great being on the field."

He played on all special teams, and his playing time as a defensive back varied from seven to eight minutes, to 15 or 20 minutes and finally, against Bentley, he played the entire game, made eight tackles and was beaten for a touchdown on a hook-and-go pass pattern. "I went for the hook, and the receiver went," he recalls. "I was 10 yards away when he caught the ball and I was furious."

Against Massachusetts Institute of Technology, he made a dozen tackles and admits he enjoyed the times when he had to play close to the line of scrimmage and stop the run.

It wasn't too long before New England was aware of the 40-year-old college player wearing jersey No. 23.

"It never meant anything during a game," he says. "Afterwards, all the coaches congratulated me, and so did many of the players. At the end of the season, I got a plaque for demonstrating determination from the New England Club Football Conference. I'll always cherish it."

His teammates say they'll always cherish their association with him, too, and there is a special meaning for Ed Marapesse.

"I benefited by coaching him," he says. "He was someone you don't run into twice in a coaching career."

The new Mazda RX-7. Just one look and you'll see its incredible value versus Porsche 924 or Datsun 280ZX.

Think for a moment of all you expect in a fine sports car. Then compare your expectations with all you get in the new Mazda RX-7.

The sleek style you expect is all there. Including many new exterior refinements. The look is clean and functional. In fact, the RX-7's aerodynamics have never been better. Inside, there's a new instrument cluster and more-convenient gear-shift lever.

The performance you expect is also there. 0 to 60 happens in a quick 8.6 seconds. Handling is superb, too. The compact rotary engine is placed behind the front axle, for ideal weight distribution.

You expect good mileage. Instead, the front, mid-engine RX-7 offers great mileage. 24% better than last year.

21 EST. mpg 30 EST. hwy mpg

Of course, you also expect a lot of features. And our long list won't disappoint you in the least.

The new RX-7 does, however, come with one thing most people don't expect. A price that makes it an absolutely astonishing value.

The RX-7 GS comes with all this. And more.

- 2-speaker AM/FM stereo radio
- Power antenna
- 5-speed overdrive transmission
- Steel-belted radials
- Dual remote-control sideview mirrors
- Halogen headlights
- Front and rear stabilizer bars
- Analog quartz clock
- Tachometer
- Remote-control fuel filler door release
- Electric remote hatch release
- Power-assisted front disc, self-adjusting rear drum brakes

When Iowa fans huddle, help is on the way.

Iowa's fans are remarkable. They provide the spirit that takes the Hawks to the goal line. Many of them provide funds as well—and this is important to Iowa's future. You can join them.

An annual gift of $25 or more to Iowa athletics makes you a member of the I-Club. With higher annual support you can qualify as a Bronze, Silver or Golden Hawk (see below). You don't need to be an Iowa grad or an Iowa letter winner to join—you just need to be a fan who wants Iowa's sports programs to be the best. Your gifts through the Hawkeye Fund assist student athletes through scholarships and help with other needs like facility improvement, equipment and team travel funds.

As a member of the I-Club you'll see game films, attend golf outings and banquets, have pre-season events and many other chances to get closer to the Hawks and their coaches.

Please send your annual contribution or information request to: Bud Callahan, The Hawkeye Fund,

*The University of Iowa Foundation,

Hancher Opens Another Winning Season

The opening of Hancher Auditorium's 1981-82 season is just around the corner, and it promises to be the biggest, brightest season of arts and entertainment yet.

Through the University of Iowa academic year, Hancher will present nearly 40 attractions and nearly 50 performances, featuring artists of international acclaim in music, dance and theater.

For its 10th season, Hancher has expanded its series offerings to 10, including two Broadway series, two completely different Theater Series, the Concert Series, the Chamber Music Series, the Sunday at 3 Series and the Young Concert Artists Series. In addition, a variety of Special Events have been scheduled.

Series highlights include fabled soprano Leontyne Price, the acclaimed Juilliard String Quartet, the rollicking Preservation Hall Jazz Band, the Tony Award-winning "Children of a Lesser God," the hit musical "Sweeney Todd," and the versatile Joffrey Ballet.

The Special Events for 1981-82 are truly special: song-and-dance sensation Ben Vereen, who won an Emmy Award for his portrayal of Chicken George in "Roots"; the runaway smash musical "Annie"; the First Lady of jazz, the ageless Ella Fitzgerald; the Broadway hit "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas," and, back by popular demand, "A Chorus Line."

One of America's top dance companies, The Houston Ballet, is featured on Hancher Auditorium's 1981-82 Dance Series.

Series subscriptions offer savings of 30 per cent and more when compared to the prices of tickets purchased individually, and series subscribers also have first priority in acquiring tickets to the Special Events. Series subscriptions are available until the first performance of each series.

Hancher also offers a variety of services and programs to provide its patrons a full evening of enjoyment. Hancher Cafe, located on the mezzanine level of the lobby, serves desserts and beverages before and after performances, and catered dinners are available by reservation before selected performances.

Private dinners for groups of 10 or more may also be arranged before or after any performance by contacting the Hancher Auditorium office in advance.

Pre-performance lectures and discussions in the Hancher greenroom are scheduled before many events.

Hancher is fully accessible to the handicapped, and hearing augmentation equipment is available, free of charge, to audience members with hearing impairment.

For full program information and order forms for Hancher's 1981-82 season, write or call the Hancher Auditorium box office. The box office can be called toll-free from anywhere in Iowa at (800) 272-6458.

Everyone's favorite piano duo, Ferrante and Teicher, is one of the attractions on Hancher Auditorium's 1981-82 Sunday at 3 Series.

CHEVY CAVALIER

THE FULL-BLOWN CAR

Shaped by gale force winds.

The sleek hatchback you see nosed proudly into the wind is one of the four new front-wheel-drive Cavaliers designed for aerodynamics and refined by gale force winds created by a giant fan like the one at the right. And when we combined Cavalier's aerodynamic character with a spunky 1.8 liter transverse-mounted engine, it resulted in very impressive EPA mileage estimates.

43 EST. HIGHWAY '26 EPA EST. MPG.

42 EST. HIGHWAY FOR CALIF AND WAGON

Use estimated MPG for comparisons. Your mileage may differ depending on speed, distance, weather. Actual highway mileage lower. Some Chevrolets are equipped with engines produced by other GM divisions, subsidiaries, or affiliated companies worldwide. See your dealer for details.

Full-blown list of 43 standard features.

While we're on the subject of impressive, consider the fact that

Cavalier is our most fully equipped new car ever. Complete with 43 standard features like an AM radio with quartz digital clock (may be deleted for credit), side and rear window defoggers, power brakes, glass-belted radials, plus rack-and-pinion steering. Many of which you'd pay extra for on other cars.

As intriguing inside as it is outside.

Now, let's talk intrigue. Because not only does Cavalier give you ample head, hip and leg room. It also gives you lots of intriguing interior niceties like a full console with storage area, a trip odometer, full carpeting and reclining front seats. So you can relax. Completely.

At a Chevy price that won't blow you away.

Cavalier's completeness extends to a choice of four models (Sedan, coupe, hatchback and spacious wagon.) There's a complete commitment to quality with over 1,000 quality checks. And each Cavalier comes complete with an affordable Chevy price. So test drive Cavalier at your Chevy dealers. Then compare it to other cars. Cavalier, you'll find, will win in a breeze.

A Tale of Two Rides

By Gus Schrader

Cedar Rapids Gazette Sports Columnist

A tale of two rides, and what a difference they made for Kenny Ploen in Iowa's first Rose Bowl game.

Fresh from being named winner of the Chicago Tribune's Silver Football Trophy as the Big Ten's Most Valuable Player in 1956, Ploen and the Hawkeyes were rated pretty much a tossup against Oregon State in the Rose Bowl game Jan. 1.

Small wonder. The two had met the previous Oct. 6 at Iowa City, and the Hawks had to score 14 points in the last 11 minutes and 17 seconds to pull out a 14-13 victory.

But Coach Forest Evashevski had his Iowa team primed after an 8-1 season (the only loss being to Michigan 17-14), climaxed by a 48-8 rout of Notre Dame.

Ploen, who finally became the starting quarterback in his senior year, didn't take long to set the Hawks going. With 4:16 elapsed, he broke loose for a 49-yard touchdown run and older Iowa fans can still see Kenny "tricycling" along with two feet and one hand on the ground before regaining his balance.

Iowa built a 14-0 lead on Mike Hagler's 9-yard run, but the Beavers gnawed back and were trailing 21-7 when Ploen got hurt. That was his first ride of the day: he was carried off the field by trainers Arnie Buntrock and Doyle Allsup.

"It happened on defense — the one-platoon system in those days," recalls Ploen, now a 46-year-old advertising salesman-broadcaster on CJOB-radio in Winnipeg, Ont. "An Oregon State player threw a cross-body block that over-extended my left knee. They gave me a shot at halftime and taped the knee bent so it would have taken one helluva blow to damage it again.

"I started the second half, and the way our guys were going I didn't have to do much. I remember I was taken out early in the fourth quarter, and later those wonderful, crazy Iowa fans came storming out to tear down the Rose Bowl goalposts, just as they had after we beat Ohio States to clinch the title."

Before he got his second ride, Ploen completed a 16-yard touchdown pass to Jim Gibbons. That was the same combo that completed "the longest pass in Iowa history — carrying the Hawks all the way to Pasadena" in the 6-0 upset of Ohio State.

Small wonder Ploen was named Most Valuable Player in the Rose Bowl, his final college game. Iowa won 35-19.

"I've still got a splinter of that goalpost somewhere among my things," laughed Ploen, who was carried by the happy fans.

He played 11 seasons for the Winnipeg Blue Bombers after that. With him as quarterback, the Bombers won four of their six Grey Cup games in that time. Ploen was named the Grey Cup MVP in 1961. His coach the first 10 of those seasons was Bud Grant, head coach of the Minnesota Vikings the last 14 years.

Kenny married an Iowa coed, the former Janet Newcomer of Dixon, Ill. (President Reagan's hometown), and they have three children. Kendra, 20, is a figure skater who appeared in Ice Follies and now is a student at Stout (Wis.) University. Doug, 19, is a soph. defensive back on the grid team at North Dakota (Grand Forks). Carol, 16, "may be the best athletic of the lot," as she was all-province in basketball and track last year and was chosen for the all-Canadian all-star squad for international competition.

"Up here I'm a 'landed immigrant,' but I'm still a U.S. citizen," says Ploen.

SECOND RIDE: Ploen carried off field by jubilant Iowa fans after Iowa 35-19 victory.

"In addition to selling advertising, I handle some public relations for CJOB and do color in broadcasting the games of the Blue Bombers, coached by Ray Jauch (another former Hawkeye star). I may come back to the State to live some day, but right now I couldn't afford it because the Canadian dollar is worth only 80 percent of the U.S. dollar."

TODAY'S HALFTIME SHOW

Today's halftime show features "Toccata in d minor," "Georgia on My Mind," a percussion section feature and dynamic closing routine. The Hawkeye Marching Band would also like to take this opportunity to salute WHO on its 50th year of broadcasting Iowa football.

The University of Iowa Hawkeye Marching Band is part of a century-old tradition of bands at Iowa. In the past eight years, the Hawkeye Marching Band has more than doubled in size from a block band of 120 to an all-time high of 290 members. Membership has also changed from a 100% male organization to 50% male — 50% female. Although remaining rich in tradition, the Hawkeye Marching Band is proud of its commitment to leadership in the field of college marching bands as it continues to employ new techniques in show design and presentation.

The 1981 Hawkeye Marching Band will perform at pre-game, halftime and postgame at all home football games. Additionally, the band will travel to Iowa State and Illinois for guest performances. The band will top off its season with two Extravaganza concert performances in Hancher Auditorium on November 17 and 18. For further information on tickets for the Hancher performances, contact the Hancher Box Office.

Dr. Myron Welch — Director of Bands
Dr. Morgan Jones — Director, Hawkeye Marching Band
Robert Drummond, Nancy Dittmer, Peter Eklund — Graduate Assistants
Dave Woodley — Drum Major
Linda Simon — Featured Twirler
Kristin Beatty — Flag Line Coordinator
Mikel Betts — Percussion Coordinator

Today's pre-game show begins with the ever-exciting Hawkeye Marching Band traditional entry followed by the downfield march and double "IOWA" formation to the strains of "On, Iowa." The band then salutes today's opponents with the visiting team's own fight song. Then it's the "Iowa Fight Song" as the band salutes the "HAWKS." To the beat of "Roll Along, Iowa" the Hawkeye Marching Band moves into its concert formation for the playing of the "Star-Spangled Banner."

Hawkeye Football Complex Among Nations Finest

In a continuing effort to edge into football prosperity, the University of Iowa has completed construction of a new instructional facility. The complex includes classrooms, weight-lifting facilities, and lockerrooms.

"Our facilities here are finally getting into the class A stage," reports third-year coach Hayden Fry. "We have worked hard on this task, and with the completion of the training and conference rooms, this situation is one of the nation's best."

Previously, whenever the squad needed to have a team meeting, it had to be held in the Pharmacy Building Auditorium. The assistant coaches then split up with their athletes and held individual conferences at the stadium, the Recreation Building, and the Fieldhouse.

The new 2000-square foot classroom will eliminate all those problems. At the conclusion of full team meetings, electronic sliding doors will divide the room into eight individual compartments. "It was such a huge handicap to have to split up all over campus, and this new procedure will certainly make organization easier," states Fry.

The new complex is also a lot closer to the equipment and training rooms. "This will make passing out equipment and treating players much more effective," Fry claims.

The facility is located at the North end of the Recreation Building, adjacent to the weight-lifting facilities. "The weight room now contains two full sets of Nautilus machines (valued at $60,000) and over 7,000 pounds of free weights," weight-training specialist Bill Dervrich says.

"Last year we came in and initiated an intensive training program. Now we possess the facilities that will enable our weight program to really start returning dividends," adds Dervrich. "There is not a weight room as well-equipped or as plush as this one, anywhere."

Other features in the building are a trophy case and a film storage area.

"There is not one thing that we put in there that is not truly needed to better our program. Also, everything we installed is top notch," says Fry. "It will be a great asset to this school, and particularly our football team, to have such outstanding facilities and all under one roof."

Iowa's football complex has a lecture room capable of holding about 150 players and can also be divided into eight separate meeting rooms.

Two full sets of Nautilus equipment highlight the weight room. Here Iowa's strength coach Bill Dervrich works with linebacker Todd Simonsen.

Where would a wise investor seek sound advice, attentive service, unbeatable information, and unmatched financial strength?

Merrill Lynch says, close to home.

Don't misunderstand. There's nothing wrong with searching far and wide for investment ideas. It's not easy to get rich these days.

But to search on your own is a full-time job-and-a-half. You have to read everything, digest it all, analyze the information, act on it...and do it fast, because opportunities become ancient history in precious little time.

Meanwhile, some of the best investment ideas are sitting practically on your doorstep, at a nearby office of Merrill Lynch.

We have the resources and the people to know, really know, investment opportunities as diverse as oil drilling partnerships and Treasury Bill futures, options and retirement plans.

Our research team is the best on Wall Street—in Wall Street's own opinion. And we make it easy to use that unrivaled resource: computer terminals at every Merrill Lynch office can instantly print out up-to-the-minute opinions on more than 1200 stocks.

Best of all is the way we tailor our advice to your requirements. Before offering a single suggestion, your Merrill Lynch Account Executive will spend a long while listening. Finding out what you really need. Because the smartest investment plans—the plans most likely to succeed—start with a clear definition of where they want to go. Are you looking for security or the opportunity to speculate? For current income or capital growth? What you tell us determines in large part what we tell you.

So we make a point of developing, for each customer, a sound long-term investment strategy, and we encourage you to stick with it and not be sidetracked by investment fads or temporary market aberrations. And we give you the security of knowing that we're going to stick with you and see you through to your goals. Merrill Lynch has more than $800 million in capital resources working for you, and we plan to be advising you long after all those fad investments have been written off.

So drop in at a nearby Merrill Lynch office and look over some of the brochures that explain our philosophy and way of doing things. Don't worry...we won't ask you to buy anything. In fact, we probably won't even let you, until we get to know you better.

THE WOMAN FOOTBALL FAN

Does She or Doesn't She?

by Mary Schmitt,
The Milwaukee JOURNAL

It was halftime, and the two women headed for the rest room. As usual there was a crowd in line, so they made their way to a row of mirrors across the front of the room.

"You know," one said to the other, "I couldn't believe that they kept running the option against the stunts that the defensive ends were using. When I saw those, I thought the only thing they could run was misdirection plays to counteract that defense. Say, do you have a comb with you?"

Her friend nodded and began to rummage through her purse for the comb and some lipstick. "Here you go," she said, handing over the comb and stepping up to the mirror. "You could be right about the misdirection plays. But I've always felt that influence blocks work much better against a team that stunts a lot. But you've got to have a good blocking back for the influence blocking scheme to be effective."

An exaggeration? Probably. Most women football fans, or men football fans, for that matter, are not well-versed enough in the intricacies of football to conduct such a discussion. They leave those kinds of comments to coaches and players.

But there is no question that the woman football fan today does—to answer the question in the title of this story—understand the game. And there are any number of reasons for this.

With the fitness boom in this country, women are taking part in more sports than ever. In high schools and colleges, women are taking physical education courses and participating in interscholastic and intramural competition. Sometimes, those courses and competitions include football.

In addition, with the increasing popularity of college and professional football, and its increasing exposure on television, women can tune into a game almost any day of the week during the fall. Monday night, Thursday night, all day Saturday and Sunday.

And with all the play-by-play, color commentary, analysis and in-depth interviews, it would be almost impossible not to learn something from the broadcasts.

Of course, there are women who would not turn the game on themselves, but who have it turned on by boyfriends, husbands or other members of the family. They find that they need some knowledge of the game just to carry on a conversation with the aforementioned persons.

Women faced with that problem in Knoxville, Tenn., were fortunate enough to have a class entitled, "All You Need to Know to Understand and Like Football" available to them. The noncredit course was offered by the University of Tennessee evening division and was taught by Gene Moeller, a former linebacker who played on Tennessee's 1951 national championship team.

According to Moeller, the class was his wife's idea. "Like anybody who gets involved in football, I didn't ever take the time to explain the finer points of the game to my wife. She came up with the idea for the class and really talked me into it.

"I gave the class with the understanding that I didn't want anybody who knew something about football. It was designed to be very basic. I had a full house—50 students for the two sessions—and about 85 percent of them were women.

"The first night of the class, I stood up and introduced myself and told them that we would start on the bottom with the very basics of football. Then I held up a jock strap. That broke everybody up, and we went on from there. We went through the history, basic rules, basic plays, positions, officials, the uniform, just everything. We had questions like 'What is a first down?' and 'What are those dashes on the field?'

"People really enjoyed it, and we had a big response for another class. I think that women are definitely more knowledgeable about football, especially with all the exposure on television. I think that there will be more and more demands by women, and the public in general, for more information."

At the University of Wisconsin, different types of classes were offered and at least five women are much more knowledgeable about football after taking Dr. John Olson's courses in football fundamentals and theory. The classes were offered for credit in the Department of Physical Education and were geared for students majoring in physical education or coaching. The fundamentals course was held on the field, and the theory course combined lecture and simulation. Both were taught by Olson, a former high school football coach.

"I have found that women get involved in and become knowledgeable about football as much as there is opportunity to do so," Olson said. "They came into the class with a basic orientation, but after they got into it and got serious about it, when they were asked to produce they really went after it.

"Women's participation and interest in sports is no longer frowned upon. Now it is just a question of making sports available to them. There is increased incentive to participate in sports or to know about sports if you can't participate. There are lots of women involved in sports in many different areas. And I think that's a very healthy sign."

Many different areas, indeed. Women now are not only fans, but also cheerleaders, pompon girls, trainers, reporters, sports information directors and assistants and, on occasion, officials.

Women are participating in the sports scene in all capacities.

coaches and players. And men coaches are noticing their increased involvement in and knowledge of the sport.

"I don't think there is any doubt that women have become more knowledgeable about football and athletics in general," said the coach of a perennial football power. "I think one of the main reasons is the increased opportunity for women as competitive athletes. No longer are women just spectators, they're active competitors. We have seen an increase in women attending our Quarterback Club and our football games.

"And we've seen an increase of women in the sports media covering football and other athletics."

Another coach said that his personal contact with women fans and media is rather limited, but that he has noticed an increase in the number of women who call in to his radio show.

"And judging from their questions, those ladies are very knowledgeable," he said. "But I have no idea how widespread this is."

One Big Ten coach thinks the trend is pretty widespread.

"I think women are becoming better and better football fans all the time. I think television is making more knowledgeable football fans out of them. I suspect they found out that if they're not fans, they're likely to become widows for four or five months out of the year.

"I find women eager to learn more about football. You'd be surprised at the number of speaking engagements I have with women's groups—secretaries, sororities, clubs, that sort of thing. And they ask some really intelligent questions. Sometimes too intelligent!"

As intelligent as the first two women in this article? Probably not. Not yet, anyway. But it's only a matter of time. ■

More involved in sports than ever, today's female fan might just as likely be spotted on the sidelines shooting the game as up in the stands cheering the home team on.

The Importance of the Holder

by John Jones, New Orleans TIMES-PICAYUNE

It is the most underrated starting assignment in college football. The Siberia of glamour. A non-stop flight to anonymity.

The holder on placekicks has the kind of job that gets noticed only when it isn't done well. His successes are rarely remembered. His mistakes are rarely forgotten.

During the course of any football season the holder is involved in as many scoring plays as a quarterback, running back or receiver. But the holder gets little credit and no respect, no respect at all.

If Rodney Dangerfield showed up at practice one day, he wouldn't have to be told where to line up. He'd stumble over to a kicking tee, drop to his knees and wait for a snap.

It is always the kicker, never the holder, whose name gets etched in the record books. There's never been a category for holders, never a hint of an award. Why can't there be a "He Didn't Foul Up Often" holder's trophy the way there are Heisman and Outland Trophies?

Even at colleges and universities renowned for their kicking games, sports information directors—a breed who earn their keep by being part historian, part publicist and full-time data bank—have trouble recalling who it was that held the ball for Roger Rocketfoot's record 67-yard field goal.

Fortunately, football coaches perceive the role and importance of the holder in an entirely different light.

To gridiron tacticians, the holder can influence the outcome of a game like few other players because any time he comes in it is a "pressure" situation.

The holder must be someone with quick hands, soft hands, hands that can massage the pin out of hand grenade without the hand grenade knowing it.

But the holder must also be a leader, someone who resolutely makes the big play, not the big mistake.

He may be a receiver or a defensive back, but he is most often a backup quarterback. He must be mobile. And, he must have a good, accurate throwing arm inside of 15 yards.

"The first thing I definitely want is a quarterback," says a Pac-10 coach who in the national coaching fraternity is revered as a guru of special teams play. "A lot of teams go with receivers or guys with good hands, but I believe you need a quarterback for two reasons.

"One: fake field goal passes. You want the guy who's going to throw that ball to be passing every day in practice. Two: bad snaps. If we get a bad snap, our holder yells 'Fire!' and we automatically turn it into a pass play."

Because holders are invariably drafted from other positions, it is rare to have a scholarship athlete who does nothing but hold for kicks. College football is increasingly specialized, but not that specialized.

Holders and kickers first meet up in spring practice. Holders are rotated through a number of kickers, and it is not unusual in the spring for a kicker to request a certain holder because the "feeling" is right.

Once fall practice starts, however, the coaching staff makes a decision before the first game on who holds for placekicks. The decision is often influenced by the desire to get a young quarterback immediate game experience. A backup holder, who isn't necessarily a quarter-without air conditioning and power steering, it offers you the kind of economy that makes road work a sheer pleasure.

Use the estimated mpg for comparison. Your mileage may differ depending on speed, distance, weather. Actual highway mileage lower. This coupe is not available in California, where the best J2000 highway estimate is 43, and EPA estimated mpg is 29.

Now the joy of our new J2000 Coupe doesn't end with good mileage. Once you ease into the cockpit, you'll know exactly what we mean. The standard fully reclining front bucket seats, striking instrument panel and floor-mounted 4-speed manual transmission with overdrive make it a driver's delight. There's also standard side window defoggers, a Delco-GM AM radio with integral digital clock (may be deleted for credit) and multi-function lever awaiting your every command.

Suddenly, driving is fun again. Standard front-wheel drive, rack and pinion steering and a taut suspension system help our J2000 Coupe uncurl corners and smooth out rough spots.

Of course, we knew you'd want a car that looks as good as it feels. So we gave this sporty new J2000 a wedge-shaped design that not only helps make it aerodynamic, but stylish as well. It adds up to one high mileage car you won't ever want to park.

So come on. Treat yourself to the new Pontiac J2000 High Mileage Coupe. Or any of our other exciting new J Generation models—2-door coupe, 3-door hatch, 4-door sedan, and 4-door wagon.

NEW PONTIAC J2000

back, and backup center for placekicks are also named.

Holders, kickers and kick snappers form a unique, three-man unit that must accomplish its mission flawlessly within 1.1 to 1.5 seconds.

"If the ball's not in the air by then," says a young Southeastern Conference head coach who once had a backup holder save a game for him, "you're going to have it blocked."

The kicking unit works on its own time up to 10 minutes before practice and up to a half hour after practice. Timing, confidence and a sixth sense about the mis-ground about six inches behind the point where the ball will be spotted. Right knee for left-footed kickers and vice versa. The holder's stance is similar for soccer-style and straight-ahead kickers.

Once positioned, the holder checks to make sure the kicker is ready. He then turns to face the line of scrimmage, reaching out to the center as he calls the snap.

The stopwatch begins ticking. Half a second . . . the ball leaves the center in a tight, low spiral and smacks into the holder's hands. Half a second . . . the kicker winds up his motion in front of the holder, so any defensive charge will be met initially by the kicker. This is wholly justifiable. If the kicker's name is going in the record books, he might as well be the first one hit.

But coaches who are short on quarterbacking talent will worry about some Lil'iputian kicker getting bounced onto the knee of a backup quarterback-holder. Not only is the kicker seeing stars, but the coach has also lost a player at a skill position.

Coaches have tried everything to keep the holder from getting hurt. Both knees down. Both knees up. Forward knee down. Squatting holds.

Yet the odds remain great that the holder who plays at another position is more likely to be injured between first down and third down than he is on fourth down.

Great plays made by holders are often unearthed days after a game is won or lost when coaches review game films. There on the movie screen the brain trust can pick apart each muscle twinge in slow motion and stop action replay.

Once in a great while, a holder stands tall before a crowded football stadium and carries the home team to victory.

It was on just that kind of night in the 1980 collegiate football season when John Falgout, a little-used sophomore flanker and backup holder, was thrust into the breach at Tiger Stadium in Baton Rouge. Falgout, who had been involved in only one other play that season, proved he could make the big play for Louisiana State in a blood feud with Colorado.

Colorado had nuked a 20-0 LSU lead late in the fourth quarter to tie the game 20-all. LSU intercepted a pass in the waning minutes and bulldozed into field goal range. But the regular kick holder, a backup quarterback named Robbie Mahfouz, had been injured.

With the game hanging in the balance, Falgout trotted out for the most significant play of his young career in Tiger-town. He checked the kicker, called the snap, spotted the ball and watched the pigskin split the uprights for a 23-20 LSU victory.

Holders, you see, can be heroes, too. They just have to be given a chance.

Now look up from the pages of this program and locate the guy on the field who is holding for placekicks. Admire him. Encourage him.

Wait for the next successful field goal or point after touchdown and yell for him.

Make him feel it.

Yell something like, "Way to handle the ball, sure hands!" Or, "You're the best holder ever!"

Go on. Yell it.

sion evolve with each practice day.

Every placekick demands that three singular assignments be coordinated into one uninterrupted blur. The snap: which must be accomplished within .5 to .6 seconds. The hold: which takes no more than .5 to .6 seconds. And the kick: which goes off in 2 seconds or less.

At ground zero, the holder is coordinating the attack.

In many instances he will call the play in the pre-kick huddle away from the kicker, who is positioning the tee. He will also count to make sure 11 players are on the field—no more, no less. If there is a problem, he will call time out.

Usually the holder is positioned with the knee nearest the kicker on the Chip shot field goals and points after touchdowns are often considered "automatics" by football fans. But if you stop to analyze the complicated jobs involved, it's a wonder any kick gets off before a defensive behemoth defuses the play.

If all goes smoothly, the holder rarely winds up on the injured list. When's the last time you saw a penalty called for roughing the holder?

1. In the _____ formation, the fullback lines up behind the quarterback and two tailbacks line up behind the FB.
2. When the running back with the ball circles out of the backfield and runs toward one of the outside holes near the sideline, he is carrying out a _____ pattern.
3. When defensive players change position as the ball is snapped in order to confuse the offense, they are _____.
4. A quick handoff running play over tackle is called a _____.
5. The pass defense plan in which defensive backs cover receivers wherever they go is called the _____.
6. When the QB makes a sweeping run instead of dropping straight back upon getting the ball, he is _____.
7. The pass defense plan in which areas rather than individuals are covered is called _____.
8. When a defensive player tries to crash through the offensive line into the opponent's backfield before the play has a chance to develop, he is performing a _____.
9. The play in which the quarterback fakes a handoff, then takes off around end alone with the ball concealed against his hip is called the _____.
10. The _____ play permits a defensive player to penetrate a hole quickly, only to be blocked from the side by pulling guard or tackle.
11. In the _____ formation, the QB starts the play several yards behind the center and receives the ball from him on the fly, after which the QB drops back a couple more yards, sets up and shoots a pass downfield to the receivers.
12. The _____ set has the fullback lined up directly behind the QB, and the halfback set up behind the strong side tackle.

PAGEANTRY REVIEW

Something about college football seems to demand a special kind of pageantry—perhaps it's the pride in their team that students, families and alumni feel when they attend a game.

During the pre-game and halftime shows and during the game itself colorful sights and sounds fill the air: The drum major struts; baton twirlers toss their batons; flag bearers present their colors; marching bands parade; and cheerleaders and school mascots rouse the crowds. All of these things really add to the excitement of college games, and the fans love it. They come not only to see two teams match brains and brawn on the field, but also to enjoy the spectacle surrounding the game.

Pageantry is part of the just plain good time that is had at college games. It helps to create an atmosphere in which fans are eager to participate in cheers, card stunts, hat tossing, singing the alma mater, or whatever expresses their enthusiasm for the team they support. From the youngest child to the oldest adult, everyone gets involved.

The definition of pageantry is "colorful, rich or splendid display"—and college football just wouldn't be the same without it. ■

The Shotgun—

The Formation of the Future?

by David Bush, San Francisco CHRONICLE

It was once strictly a tool of the desperate, used only in the most dire of circumstances. But recently the shotgun formation has been increasing in popularity in college football, every year gaining new devotees as coaches look for more ways to improve their offenses.

A great many teams now rely on it as an integral part of their arsenal. "We are into a shotgun trend," said a Pacific-10 coach. "I don't know how far it's going to go, but I'm seeing a lot more of it."

Some coaches use it only on obvious passing downs, and fewer than five times during a game, but others will line up in it as much as half the time.

Not every coach is enamored of the offense, and even those who use it concede it has some weaknesses. "So what?" says an eastern coach. "No formation is perfect. I can pick apart any one you name. But if we didn't experiment and try different things, we'd all still be using the Notre Dame box."

In the shotgun, the quarterback stands five yards behind the line of scrimmage and takes a direct long snap, rather than positioning himself immediately behind the center. Four, and sometimes all five eligible pass receivers line up on or near the line of scrimmage. At the snap they scatter in their various patterns like a load of buckshot, thus giving the formation its name.

As with all football formations, variations of the shotgun have been around since the earliest days of the game. But it was not until the 1960s that the shotgun received the legitimacy of a name and a role. Strangely, it was in the staid world of professional football, where innovation is usually regarded with contempt, that the shotgun surfaced.

The San Francisco 49ers, with quarterback Y.A. Tittle and star running back Hugh McElhenny both injured, were 16-point underdogs to the Baltimore Colts in November, 1960. But the 49ers came out in a new formation and upset the Colts, 30-22. Writers covering the game, as confused as was the Baltimore defense, groped for a way to describe the new 49er offense. They referred to it as a "spread," a "double wing" and a "short punt." It was left to 49ers' coach Red Hickey, who had designed the thing, to give it a name. "We call it our shotgun offense," he said after the game.

It quickly fell into disfavor and has since been used by only the most inventive of pro teams. College coaches continued to dabble in it. At Northern Illinois in the mid-1960s, quarterback George Bork set several passing records using the shotgun, but coaches usually went to it only if their quarterback's mobility was impaired.

"If your quarterback has a bad ankle or something it is a good way to protect him," said a Midwest coach. "He doesn't have to drop back, which can be a big strain on a tender foot. And even if your quarterback is healthy, it can help. Once we played a game in the South, and it was 100 degrees. Our quarterback had to drop back 50 times. If I had known it was going to be that hot, I would have used the shotgun. All that moving took its toll, and by the end of the game, he was exhausted."

But coaches and passers are discovering that the shotgun has some advantages for healthy quarterbacks. "I like it because you can see the patterns developing all the way" said an East Coast quarterback who has used the shotgun since his high school days. "And you can read the coverages and see the rush coming much more easily. You aren't looking away, and then having to pick everything up all over again. It's all right in front of you from start to finish."

Another plus is that the quarterback gains a lot of confidence using the shotgun. He doesn't have to worry about any of the variables associated with the dropback pass: taking the snap, footwork, setting up. All of that is eliminated, and he can just concentrate on throwing.

The shotgun limits the types of pass patterns a team can run, but makes some of them more effective. The quick pass is eliminated, because to make it work the quarterback must be only two or three steps behind the line of scrimmage. And routes that rely on split-second timing are extremely difficult to execute in the shotgun; they are instinctive and predicated on the pass drop.

The most common shotgun pass patterns rely on the receiver maneuvering to get open. The quarterback sees the defenders during the entire play, and can choose exactly the right moment to deliver the ball.

Screen passes, too, work extremely well in the shotgun. "The key to a successful screen is the quarterback dropping way back and throwing just as he is about to get hit," said a Rocky Mountain coach. "That's a lot easier in the shotgun. The quarterback is already back there, and the defensive linemen are storming up the field, playing pass all the way. It is an ideal screen situation."

Teams that want to use their quarterback as a runner, but don't want to get involved in the high-risk ball handling of an option offense are turning to the shotgun. A small, fast quarterback who has trouble seeing over the linemen, for example, can set up in the shotgun, run around and give the defense fits.

One very effective play with a mobile shotgun quarterback is the flush pattern, in which the quarterback deliberately gets himself flushed out of the pocket, and, once on the loose, can run or throw. In the dropback situation, the direction the quarterback is flushed is called in the huddle. He has to go that way regardless of the pressure. But in the shotgun, the quarterback has his druthers because he has time to watch the pass rush. Then when he starts moving, the linebackers are in trouble. If the linebackers don't come up, a good running quarterback might get 20 yards. If they do, there's a hole in the coverage. If the linebackers just freeze, the receiver has an easy time making a hole for himself.

In the shotgun, offensive linemen have responsibilities identical to a normal set. The blocking schemes are the same.

There is an obvious difference, however, for the center. He must snap the ball five yards rather than just hand it to the quarterback. Surprisingly, that isn't much of a problem.

Because it's only five yards, and not 15 like for a punt, the center can do it with his head up, looking forward. And snapping in the shotgun doesn't require the same accuracy that is needed for a field goal try, where the location of the snap has to be perfect. As long as the ball is close and not on the ground or up in the stands, the quarterback can catch it.

Despite its advantages, the shotgun is not without its detractors. "It's a 95 percent passing formation," said one coach who abandoned an experiment with it. "It tells the defense you are going to pass, and their linemen say, 'to heck with the run' and just blow in at you. They get into a sprinter's stance and come, which makes it tough on the offensive line."

Other coaches feel that doesn't matter. If it's third and 20, a pass is in order anyway, so what's the difference? The shotgun isn't giving away any secrets in those situations.

"I just like keeping the idea of a run," persisted the coach. "There is no play action possible in a shotgun. It isn't deceptive. The quarterback can't fake a handoff because all the backs are in front of him and the defense can see the ball. The threat of a run, however remote, holds the defense up just a little. Sometimes that is enough."

Other coaches have had some success running a delay draw play from the shotgun.

Against a dropback offense, the inside linebacker has to watch for the draw only until the quarterback drops behind the fullback. Once the fullback passes that point, there will be no more draw, and the linebacker can go into his pass coverage. But in the shotgun, the fullback is there all the time. The quarterback can count to three or five or whatever. The point is that he can hand the ball off at any time and it can drive the linebacker crazy.

Some coaches feel the shotgun takes away one of a quarterback's big advantages—the ability to change the play at the line of scrimmage. With the shotgun, the play that is called in the huddle is the one that is run.

Regardless of its drawbacks, the shotgun is being used more regularly by teams around the country. Even schools known strictly for their running offenses are trying it. Maybe the reason is that passing is such a radical departure for them, that they would rather do it in a radical formation. Or maybe it is because the shotgun is the offense of the 1980s.

some newcomers who can contribute. Our secondary will have excellent speed. People like Thomas Morris, Nate Hannah and Tim Cunningham run as well as anyone we've had. Our linebackers also pursue very well. If we can stay healthy, I think we can have a really fine season."

MINNESOTA

What Joe Salem probably wishes for more than anything else as he begins his third season as head coach at his alma mater is consistency. For the second year in a row his Gophers did a late-season fadeout in 1980, being soundly defeated in the final two games by Michigan State and Wisconsin, teams that finished below Minnesota in the standings.

As a result, the Gophers wound up 5-6 overall and 4-5 in the Big Ten after going into the last two weeks with the prospect of a 6-3 Big Ten log and a possible post-season bowl bid.

"We need help in certain areas," says Salem. "We've got some quality people returning, but we need to find some depth. Our kicking game was a disaster last year, and we have to improve that. And we must work on cutting down mistakes."

The big problem in terms of personnel appears to be replacing the team's top running backs from last season, Marion Barber and Barry White. White rushed for 959 yards last year and Barber 769, and between them they scored 20 of the Gophers' 28 touchdowns.

The triggerman of that offense this season again figures to be Salem's son, Tim, now a sophomore. The running backs may be something of a question mark prior to the first game or two, but otherwise there's a lot of very good material returning, headed by offensive tackle Ken Dallafior, guard Todd Hallstrom, center Ed Olson, linebackers Glenn Howard and Jim Fahnhorst, defensive tackles Kevin Kellin and Steve Bisch and defensive backs Mike Robb and Rick Wit-thus.

The Gophers appear to have the personnel for a first-division finish, and what appears to be a relatively easy early-season schedule, for a change, should be helpful toward that end.

NORTHWESTERN

In the last five seasons, the Wildcats have owned the Big Ten basement, winning but two conference games in that time while losing 41 and tying one. Overall, that five-year mark is three wins, 51 losses and one tie. The Wildcats enter this season having lost 20 straight games and 26 in a row in the Big Ten.

Northwestern quarterback Mike Kerrigan set six school records last fall.

So Northwestern has turned again to a new coach to try to solve its gridiron woes, this time in the person of Dennis Green, a one-time University of Iowa running back who has had West Coast coaching experience at Stanford and with the San Francisco 49ers.

Having worked with the talented passing game at Stanford, it's not surprising that Green expects his 'Cats to throw the ball a lot. "We have to develop into a passing team," says Green. "I want our offense to be explosive. We want to be able to strike from anywhere on the field and put pressure on the opposing defense. I want the opposition to make sure they must defend against the pass on every down, before they consider looking at our running game."

The probable triggerman for the Wildcats will be Mike Kerrigan, 6-3 and 190, a senior with two years of eligibility remaining who set six school records in 1980 while logging the most playing time at quarterback. The top receivers should be Randal Sconyers and Todd Jenkins, a pair of sophomores, plus tight ends Jim Harding, Chris Hinton and Ralph Jackson.

Jeff Cohn and Tracy Parsons figure to be dangerous ballcarriers, while the offensive line is headed by tackles Rob Taylor and Bob Pratt. Northwestern's young defense is headed by free safety Bobby Anderson, a second team All-Big Ten choice a year ago, and outside linebacker Chris Capstran, a converted quarterback.

If enthusiasm and attitude can prevail, Green will get the job done, although not too much should be expected of him in one season.

OHIO STATE

Ohio State short of material? Difficult to believe, isn't it? Yet, it's a fact at Columbus this season. The Buckeyes still figure to be one of the Big Ten's best teams this fall, but Coach Earle Bruce, starting his third season, has only 24 lettermen, and that's the fewest at Ohio State in 14 years.

Bruce's first two Ohio State teams logged a record of 20-4, but two of those losses were major disappointments at the end of the 1980 season, a near shut-out (9-3) at home to hated Michigan for the Big Ten title and a 31-19 Fiesta Bowl loss to Penn State when a halftime lead frittered away.

Graduation losses totaled 22 lettermen, including four offensive starters and seven from the defensive unit. Among the top departees were tailback Cal Murray, leading rusher in the Big Ten; fleet flanker Doug Donley; offensive tackle Luther Henson; linebackers Keith Ferguson and Alvin Washington; middle guard Mark Sullivan; the entire starting defensive backfield and outstanding kickers Vlade Janakievski and Tom Orosz.

That's a whale of a lot of top talent to lose, but do not shed too many tears for Bruce just yet. Ohio State ALWAYS has a lot of very good football players, and this year's squad will be no exception.

The No. 1 man on offense will be senior quarterback Art Schlichter, who has

Beyond quartz, the world's most precise tuning system, lies a new ability to expand sound.

Imagine you're in a room with Technics SA-82B receiver. What you hear is beautiful stereo. Then you activate Technics variable Dimension Control. Incredibly, the sound begins to move. The stereo image widens to the point where the music begins to surround you. You're intrigued by its richness and depth. You're enveloped by a new experience in sound. That's the wonder of the patented technology in Technics Dimension Control.

Just as wondrous is quartz synthesis, the world's most precise tuning system. That's how the SA-82B quartz synthesizer eliminates FM drift as well as the hassle of tuning. You can even preset and instantly retrieve 71 FM and 7 AM stations, all perfectly in tune.

Another perfect example of Technics technology is our synchro-bias circuitry. What it does is constantly send minute amounts of power to the amplifier transistors. And since they can't switch on or off, switching distortion is eliminated.

And when it comes to power, the SA-82B has plenty: 100 watts per channel minimum RMS into 8 ohms from 20Hz to 20kHz with no more than 0.005% total harmonic distortion.

The SA-82B goes on to show its sophistication with a super-quiet phono equalizer, soft touch program selectors, fully electronic volume control, and a Dimension Control display that doubles as a power level meter.

Technics SA-82B is part of a full line of quartz synthesized receivers. Hear it for yourself. Beyond its quartz synthesizer lies a new dimension in sound.

Stress can rob you of vitamins

What is stress?

Severe injury or infection, physical overwork, too many martini lunches, fad dieting—any condition that places an unusual demand upon your body constitutes stress and may cause B and C vitamin depletion, if the diet is inadequate.

Vitamins the body can't store.

Your body absorbs two kinds of vitamins from the food you eat: fat-soluble and water-soluble. Substantial reserves of the fat-soluble vitamins are accumulated in body tissues. But this is not true of most of the water-soluble vitamins, B-complex and C. They should be replaced every day.

When your vitamin needs are increased by stress, your body may use up more B and C vitamins than your usual diet can provide. When that stress is prolonged, a vitamin deficiency can develop.

STRESSTABS® 600 High Potency Stress Formula Vitamins can help.

STRESSTABS® 600 has a single purpose: to help you avoid a B-complex and C vitamin deficiency. With 600 mg of vitamin C, and B-complex vitamins, high potency STRESSTABS® 600 can help restore your daily supply of these important vitamins.

STRESSTABS® 600 also contains the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance of vitamin E.

A stress formula to meet a woman's need for iron.

STRESSTABS® 600 with Iron combines the basic STRESSTABS formula with 150% of the Recommended Daily Allowance of iron, plus folic acid and more B<sub>6</sub>, to help satisfy the special nutritional needs of many young women.

STRESSTABS® 600 with Zinc.

Because zinc requirements have also been found to increase during various forms of stress, it has recently been concluded that there are times when your body may need more zinc.

STRESSTABS® by Lederle. The Stress Formula Vitamins preferred by physicians.

Doctors have relied upon the quality of Lederle medicines, vaccines and research for over 70 years.

Today, that same quality goes into STRESSTABS®, recommended by doctors more often than any other stress formulas.

Look for the Lederle mark on every STRESSTABS® package. If it doesn't say Lederle, it's not STRESSTABS®.

The Redshirt

"A football player is a wonderful creature. You can criticize him, but you can't discourage him. You can defeat his team, but you can't make him quit. You can get him out of a game, but you can't get him out of football."

Yup, as Loftus observed, they come in all sizes, shapes and hues. And if one proves to be too small or slightly bent in the wrong place, you don't necessarily throw him away. You can just change the color of his jersey.

Sooner or later every coach will get some players who look like they are pretty good prospects. But they are just not ready to play. At the best, they are going to be the fifth tackle or maybe the sixth linebacker.

Maybe they're too small. Possibly they lack emotional maturity. In a lot of instances they have been hampered by injury. They are candidates for a redshirt.

The term might have been coined, and the symbol adopted, by a coach unable to bear the sight of blood. Possibly the coach was preparing his team to meet The Big Red of Nebraska, Ohio State or Stanford, because the type of players described above can spend an entire season on the "scout team," wearing the jersey and running the offense of the next opponent on the schedule.

"When you talk about the redshirt rule you are really referring to the 'five-year-rule' explains Western Athletic Conference Commissioner Joe Kearney. "If a player does not participate in any games for a year, his eligibility continues for five seasons, instead of four years from the time he enrolls."

He is, in the lexicon of collegiate football, a "redshirt."

At one time their numbers were legion.

Schools might have had as many as 155 players on football grants-in aid. If 40 new players were brought in a year, the coach might decide that 10 of them would be ready to play as sophomores. The other 30 would be redshirted.

Today, schools may offer no more than 95 football scholarships.

"That puts a little different aspect on redshirting," admits one coach who has had tremendous success redshirting his quarterbacks. "You can't do it too often."

Normally, a decision on redshirting is made by the player, and his coach, just before the start of his sophomore season. He is told just about how much playing time, if any, he can anticipate at his present level of development.

The player may decide to take his chances on the bench, or on the special teams. Or he may elect to sit out that season, on the chance that his value to the squad will be enhanced with another year of practice-field experience and maturity.

Most coaches don't hide the fact that selfish motives sometimes influence their inclinations toward redshirting athletes.

"We had a player in our secondary who could have played last year," a Midwest coach admits. "But we redshirted him so we wouldn't lose all our talent at that position in the same season."

There is hardly a coach who does not embrace the redshirt philosophy, and occasionally uses it to strengthen his team. One area of disagreement which did arise, however, questioned whether coaches should be allowed to redshirt freshmen.

The redshirt may spend an entire season on the scout team.

This practice was allowed in 1978, but was greeted with varying degrees of enthusiasm.

"We didn't redshirt any freshmen that year," a southern coach recalled. "I wanted my kids to play and we had about four junior varsity games scheduled. I think the transition from high school to college is tough enough. If a young player is motivated to study, he will study. And he is so much more motivated if he is playing, than he would be sitting out that first season."

"I disagree," responded a Southwest Conference coach. "We redshirted 10 to 12 freshmen that year and I think without exception they are going to be better players because of it. I thought the freshman rule was a good one and I was sorry to see it discontinued after one year. The psychological and physical maturity of youngsters differs. The ones who mature earlier play earlier. I have not found it to be detrimental to them academically or psychologically."

OK, there is an obvious argument within the coaching fraternity on this issue.

But how do the coaches feel about the practice of redshirting athletes in, say, the seventh grade?

Well, coaches from the Pee Wee level on up have been mimicking successful college coaches in strategy, motivation, equipment. Why shouldn't they also decide that some athletes might extend their stay in junior or senior high for a year, for the eventual benefit of the football team?

"I know they had a segment on the practice of redshirting seventh graders on 'Sixty Minutes,'" recalls one coach. "I haven't really found anything wrong with it. I see youngsters coming into college now at 16 or 17 years of age. That is very young."

Another coach echoes this view. "I see nothing objectionable about a family deciding a boy should be held back a year. I would be absolutely against anybody else making that decision for him. I had an extra year in high school and I think it definitely changed my life for the better."

"You know," he confided, "I wanted to hold all four of my sons back, but my wife wouldn't go for it."

Unlike the executive director of the NCAA or the commissioner of the Big Ten or Atlantic Coast Conference, mothers are still able to exercise a unilateral veto vote regarding the redshirt rule.

What separates the champions from everyone else is the ability to duplicate their achievements.

The College Football Hall of Fame

Imagine, if you will, a Hall of Fame devoid of musty little rooms where memories hang heavily along drably painted walls and trophies lose their glitter in dim-lit shadow boxes.

Visualize, instead, a football Hall of Fame which honors its great players, coaches and personalities in bright attitudes of achievement. Picture tele-screens bringing men and matter to life, where the late Knute Rockne "talks" of legends and "Red" Grange gallops again. See yourself matching wits with history's most successful coaches or testing your knowledge of the game in a computer quiz.

These experiences are reality at the National Football Foundation's College Football Hall of Fame at Kings Island, the 1600-acre family entertainment center, situated along Interstate-71 north of Cincinnati. The facility promises more than a past-tense presentation of gridiron glory. To the contrary, you will discover football excitement in a modern mood, blending multimedia concepts in a unique, fun-filled learning process.

Aligned with the National Football Foundations' dedication to educate and inspire Americans through the principles of football, the building, dedicated on August 3, 1978, has been hailed as the Hall of Fame of the future.

Jacques Cattell Press, in its recently released The Big Book Of Halls Of Fame, foresees the visitor getting "to know the game of college football intimately within 2-3 hours" or attaining "in 10 minutes a first-name kind of friendship with a famous college football star of the past."

Indeed, this personalized approach is an integral part of the Hall. Exhibits bring the total college football experience to life via action-oriented attractions which invite your participation. Within a campus-like framework of Georgian-Colonial architecture, the building houses a wonderland of fact and fun certain to appeal to each member of the family—male and female, young and old.

For example, a touch of the telescreen keyboard conjures up the legends of Jim Thorpe, Tom Harmon, Bronko Nagurski, "Whizzer" White, Pop Warner or any of the 453 players and coaches enshrined in the Hall. The computer gives you ready access to information on the Hall of Famers, according to name, school, state or season.

You may want to meander through the "Time Tunnel," which traces the history of football from its earliest beginning as a Greek game called Harpaston, played in 478 B.C., to its modern version. Walk along the cobblestones of Merry Old England and learn how King Henry II outlawed the sport when his archers spent more time kicking a ball than drawing their bows. Leave the ancient days of football's development, passing through a Civil War tent and into the blossoming evolution of the game as a uniquely American sport.

Four theatres provide cinematic insight into great teams and individuals, classic contests, bowl highlights and rib-tickling football follies. Wide-eyed youngsters can enjoy Hanna-Barbera's Fred Flintstone in an "explanation" of football rules. A 250-seat Grandstand Theatre records the game's Golden and Modern eras in film and slides.

And, yes you will witness Notre Dame's legendary Knute Rockne—in a specially-produced animated form—deliver his famous pep talks in the "Locker Room," sponsored by Chevrolet. The reincarnated Rockne urges you to "Win One For The Gipper" or "Fight, Fight, Fight," recalling some of the most inspirational moments in football. That's not all! Many other coaches are featured in Locker Room screenings.

The computerized "Strategy Room" is set to offer exciting games to test your skill and judgment in situations familiar to the nation's coaches. Tackle a computer quiz and "make the team," moving from Recruit to Coach, all based upon your knowledge of football and its history.

Or, for some real fun, step up to the tee and kick a "game-winning" field goal. Be careful, though! There are cheers if you make it, boos if you miss.

The new Hall of Fame offers college football's color, excitement and pageantry as an extension of the already popular family entertainment theme of Kings Island. Taft Broadcasting Company, owner of Kings Island, is managing the Hall of Fame under the direction of the National Football Foundation.

The traveling gourmet can enjoy the Island's International Restaurant; the golfer, a tour of the Jack Nicklaus Golf Center, site of the 1978 Ladies Professional Golf Association Championship.

Overnight guests can relax amid the Swiss chalet charm of the 300-room Kings Island Inn or use the Kings Island Campground.

rewritten the Buckeye record book with his passing arm. He is also a better-than-average runner. Gary Williams and Thad Jemison are talented wide receivers and Brad Dwelle and John Frank are experienced tight ends. The top interior line-man may be big Joe Lukens.

Tim Spencer played fullback last year, but may return to his 1979 role at tailback if Bruce finds a top notch fullback from among veterans Vaughn Broadnax or Ray Myers or Craig Dunn, the latter a transfer from Villanova.

The tackle positions look good on defense with the return of regulars Chris Riehm and Jerome Foster. Also returning are linebackers Marcus Marek and Glenn Cobb, while converted receiver Garcia shared by Ohio State and Michigan. And the Riveters have been to, and won, three successive bowl games ... the Peach, Bluebonnet and Liberty.

But it's a brand new season at West Lafayette and head coach Jim Young is going to find out what it's like to coach a team without Mark Herrmann at quarterback. Young and Herrmann arrived on the Purdue scene in the same year and Herrmann started 45 of the 47 games Young has coached on the banks of the Wabash.

It will be very much of a new team with a new look and a new character at Purdue, for Young has a major rebuilding job. Not only did Herrmann graduate, but so did two of his top receivers, split

Jones and fullbacks Jim Owen and Robert Pruitt.

Purdue has less holes to fill on defense and will be tough again, headed by linemen Paul Hanna, Matt Hernandez and Mike Moreland, linebackers David Frye and Brock Spack and veteran defensive backs Tim Seneff and Marcus McKinnie.

Purdue has a tough schedule, but it has this plus: Late season Big Ten showdowns with Michigan and Ohio State both are at home, as are rugged early-season non-conference games with Stanford and Notre Dame.

WISCONSIN

There's "good news and bad news" about Wisconsin's 1981 football schedule. The Badgers have seven home games, including the first five in a row. That's good. Four of those first five opponents are Michigan, UCLA, Purdue and Ohio State. That's bad.

By the time the Badgers get through with those teams, or vice versa, it may be nice to get away from home.

Last year, Wisconsin went 3-5 in the Big Ten and 4-7 overall with a team that had a terrible time trying to get acquainted with the end zone. Six times the Badgers were unable to score a touchdown, and four times they were unable to score a point, making them one of the lowest-scoring teams in the nation.

Obviously, offense has gotten the most emphasis for this season from head coach Dave McClain. The big problem was lack of a consistent passing game, and the quarterback job this fall will probably go to either John Josten, who has been injury prone, or Jess Cole, a fine option runner who started the last two games last season and helped produce two victories. The makings of a fine running game are there in the persons of Dave Mohapp and Gerald Green at fullback and John Williams and Troy King at tailback. The top receivers figure to be split end Tim Stracka, tight end Craig Fredrick and flankers Thad McFadden and Marvin Neal. There's also good experience in the offensive line, with only one 1980 starter missing.

Defensively, Wisconsin made great progress in 1980 and returns six starters, headed by linebackers Dave Levenick and Guy Boliaux, middle guard Tim Krumrie, tackle Mark Shumate and defensive backs Dave Greenwood and Clint Sims.

If Wisconsin can develop a solid passing threat, it will be a good football team, but it needs to be awfully good right away to face that brutal early schedule.

Tackle Tom Jelesky anchors the offensive line at Purdue.

Lane looked especially impressive as a defensive back in spring drills.

Overall, there are more question marks in the Ohio State picture this fall than is normal. By the time games 3 and 4 against Stanford and Florida State are over, a lot of those questions should have been answered.

PURDUE

If you're speaking of "The Big Two and Little Eight," Purdue partisans could rightfully scream, "Hey, don't count us in the Little Eight! At least put us in the Big Three, if not higher!"

And they'd have a right to do so, too. In the last three seasons, Purdue has had the best overall record among Big Ten teams with a mark of 28-7-1. And the Boilermakers' Big Ten record of 20-3-1 is only a shade behind the 21-3 mark end Bart Burrell and tight end Dave Young, defensive tackle Calvin Clark, and linebackers Tom Kingsbury and James Looney, to name a few.

All told, eight offensive starters and five on defense must be replaced. Obviously, the biggest question is who will replace Herrmann, the poised passer and field general. The best bets are Scott Campbell, Herrmann's backup man in 1980, or Larry Gates, the top reserve in 1979.

The top pass receiver should be speedy flanker Steve Bryant, while Purdue will again have a mammoth line to protect that passer headed by Tom Jelesky, Claybon Fields and Kevin Shingleton. Purdue may run a bit more than it has in the past two or three seasons, in which case you may hear more of Jimmy Smith, Eric Jordan, Marion Isom, Wally

Huskers' Craig Ready For Leadership Role

When the University of Nebraska football team takes the field at Kinnick Stadium for its 1981 season opener against Iowa, I-Back Roger Craig is expected to be making his first start in a Cornhusker uniform — and he'll be making it only 60 miles from his hometown of Davenport, Iowa.

However, the 6-1, 211-pound junior says neither fact has personal significance for him.

"This would be my first actual start, but I know what it's like to play the whole game," the Davenport Central says. "Last year, against both Colorado and Iowa State, I got into the game after the first couple of plays and went the rest of the way.

"As far as playing at Iowa is concerned, it's just another game to me," he continues. "It is kind of a special game for me because a lot of family and friends will be there to see me play. It's kind of a homecoming, but as far as the game itself, they'll be ready for us and we'll be ready for them, just like any other game."

Craig realizes, however, that he's going to have a different role to play in 1981. Last year's first two I-Backs, Jarvis Redwine and Craig Johnson, are gone — and he knows the spotlight is going to be on him.

"I'm going to try to be a team leader," he says. "We lost a lot of leadership off last year's team, and I have to try to be one this year. It's different having Jarvis and Craig Johnson gone. I know there will be more expected of me this year, but I just have to go out and do well, and not think about the pressure."

If Craig's performance in a starting role is anything similar to what he did as a heralded "third-stringer" in 1980, he's destined for stardom. Playing behind Redwine and Johnson last season, he rushed for 769 yards on 108 carries (a 7.1-yard average) and a phenomenal 15 touchdowns. He was the Big Eight's No. 7 rusher and No. 2 scorer in 1980, and ranked sixth in the nation in scoring.

After a sophomore season like that, Craig is not likely to catch anyone by surprise, including Iowa. Against the Hawkeyes in 1980, he enjoyed his best non-Big Eight performance when he ran for 78 yards and a pair of touchdowns in the Husker's 57-0 win in Lincoln.

That was one of four times in the first six games in which he flirted with the 100-yard mark (he also had 69 and two TDs vs. Utah, 83 and three TDs Kansas, and 69 and two scores against Oklahoma State), but when he got his chance to play most of a game against Colorado in game No. 7, he made the most of it.

When both Redwine and Johnson went down with injuries early in the game, Craig came in to rush for 176 yards and three touchdowns and 21 carries to earn Big Eight player-of-the-week honors and lead the huskers to a 45-7 romp over the Buffaloes. Two weeks later, he entered the Kansas State game in a reserve role and stole the spotlight from Redwine, running for 183 yards and a TD on just nine carries. His 69-yard run vs. K-State was the Huskers' longest of 1980.

On, Iowa, on forevermore,
Ev'ry loyal son will give a rousing toast to you,
Ev'ry loyal daughter loves you true,
On, Iowa, with our wealth untold,
A heritage to us you did unfold,
Love of family, love of friend,
Love of country, too, makes us proud for what you stand,
Our dear Old Gold.

IOWA FIGHT SONG

(Meredith Willson)

The word is "Fight! Fight! Fight! for IOWA,"
Let every loyal Iowan sing:
The word is "Fight! Fight! Fight! for IOWA,"
Until the walls and rafters ring (Rah! Rah!)
Come on and cheer, cheer, cheer for IOWA
Come on and cheer until you hear the final gun.
The word is "Fight! Fight! Fight! for IOWA,"
Until the game is won.

ROLL ALONG, IOWA

Roll along, Iowa, Roll down the field,
On to Victory!
Roll along, Iowa, Don't ever yield,
Always a winner be!
Get that ball, Give your all
For dear Old Gold,
Raise her banner high!
With firm endeavor,
Roll on forever, U. of I.
